Ottawa 'New Boy' Gears for Action

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Robert Stanfield, now in full command of the Tory Party in the Commons, began gearing his troops Wednesday to oust the government.

An hour after he took his seat in the Commons, he said he would crack down on absenteeism in his party in crucial votes.

Two of these votes are expected in the next month. One will be the supply motion debate, when the opposition can move non-confidence based on any issue it chooses.

The other will be the vote on Finance Minister Sharp's expected mini-budget, imposing new taxes on Canadians later this month. The minority government faces a period of danger unequalled since it took office in April, 1963.

The three-member Sacred band is understood to be considering voting against the government now that a credible alternative, the Stanfield Tories, is in the wings.

This sense of danger dominated the Commons as Stanfield, the victor of the

Iwo to Go But Not Okinawa

WASHINGTON (LAT)—The United States agreed Wednesday to hand back battle-famed Iwo Jima and the Bonin Islands to Japan, probably sometime next year. But it retained dominion over strategically important Okinawa, and declined to set a date on which it will be returned to the Japanese. Decisions were announced jointly by President Johnson and visiting Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Billion-Dollar Bail-Out

BIG BUNDLE FOR BRITAIN

LONDON (CP) — A group of countries, including Canada, is reported to have agreed to provide Britain with a medium-term loan of about $1,000,000,000 to help repay its debt to the International Monetary Fund during the next three years.

The Associated Press quotes informants as saying several friendly countries have responded to a British request with offers of credit. The informants would not name the countries approached by Britain but the AP says Canada, the United States, West Germany and Switzerland are known to be among them.

When all the countries approached have answered, British ministers will decide whether to accept or reject the offers, the AP says.

BANK OF CANADA 'IN'

In Ottawa, a finance department spokesman said arrangements have been made among central banks in a number of countries to assist in the medium-term loan plan.

"The Bank of Canada will be participating," he said.

A treasury official in London said such a loan would help eliminate widespread speculation that Britain soon would be forced to devalue the pound—a measure which the Labor government strongly opposes.

MUST REPAY FUND

The reports suggest the loan would be for a period of from three to five years. During the next three years Britain must repay the monetary fund about $1,500,000,000 borrowed during the height of the 1964-65 sterling crisis.

The government already has acknowledged that its official reserves — currently about $3,000,000,000 — are unlikely to be increased this year. A surplus in the country's balance of payments, which the government anticipated earlier this year, has not materialized, mainly because of increasing imports and lagging exports and a recent dock strike that has impeded shipments.

NO SURPLUS IN '68?

There now is concern in official quarters that 1968 also may not produce a much-needed trade surplus that could fatten the lean reserves. There also is some indication that a recent increase in the bank rate to 6½ per cent from six per cent has not attracted new capital to Britain.

During the height of the 1964-65 crisis, a total of 11 countries, including Canada, rallied to Britain's side providing stand-by credits of approximately $1,000,000,000 for a period of about six months.

The new loan would be in addition to the $270,000,000 which Britain borrowed last weekend from a number of countries for a period ranging from seven to 18 months. This loan is designed to meet a repayment to the monetary fund next month.

Romper Room Mountie Plan?

From CP

OTTAWA — One of the Ottawa Valley's most picturesque farms has been sold to the RCMP under mysterious circumstances.

Sale of the 244-acre farm was confirmed by owner John Girouard Wednesday.

"They didn't tell me what they wanted it for and swore us to secrecy," said Girouard. He also refused to name the sale price but said he considered accepting $32,000 from an area man prior to the RCMP offer.

One Ottawa source said the 93-year-old farm would be used as a "romping ground" for the 80-odd ceremonial horses that make up the famed musical ride. Their present pasture is crowded by Rockcliffe airport.

Real Vote Today

Abolition Passes 'Preview' Test

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons indicated Wednesday it will approve abolition of capital punishment for a five-year trial period.

It voted 125 to 71 against a Creditist motion to adjourn the debate on capital punishment for Wednesday only.

The motion had no practical effect because by the time the vote was completed the time allotted for government business had expired. The capital punishment debate is scheduled to resume today with a vote likely on the government bill.

Some MPs said after the vote that the vote on the adjournment motion of Roland Godin (Creditist—Portneuf) was in effect a vote on the bill itself. Others disagreed.

TORIES TOO

In any event, the Liberals voted almost solidly against the adjournment motion and were joined by 16 Conservatives, including leader Robert Stanfield casting his first vote, and 15 New Democrats.

Voting for the motion were 57 Conservatives, five Creditists, three Social Credit MPs, three independents and three Liberals — Ralph Cowan, York-Humber, Jean-Paul Racine, Beauce, and Georges Lachance, Montreal-Lafontaine.

Standings in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals 132, Conservatives 95, NDP 22, Creditist 8, Independent 3, vacant 1.

TWO CASES

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) abstained on the grounds his law partner now is engaged in two murder cases.

He made it clear he at least regarded the vote as, in effect, on the bill itself when he said that if he had voted he would have voted for retention of capital punishment.

There were other indications the vote was generally regarded

Shells Keep Coming

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops poured more mortar shells into the big U.S. army and air force base in the Dak To valley at midmorning today in a siege that began 24 hours ago and raged through the night. The U.S. military command pressed ahead with an airlift to replace tons of ammunition destroyed in the assault.

Six separate mortar attacks Wednesday, Wednesday night and Thursday morning knocked out a big ammunition dump at Dak To in the central highlands, destroyed part of a smaller arsenal, blew up two big transport planes and left an area of the base in flames.

The latest rain of mortar shells hit the Dak To complex at 9:45 a.m. today, but little damage resulted.

HEAVY DAMAGE

U.S. commanders at Dak To described the previously-inflicted damage as extremely heavy. The siege destroyed 150,000 gallons of high-octane gasoline in addition to millions of rounds of ammunition.

Saigon headquarters reported that the Dak To assaults, ground fighting nearby in the hills around the base and other combat in widely scattered

'Dear Santa: I'd Like A Rocket ...'

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi, known across the province as "Flying Phil" because of his high-speed highway antics, says he's got his sights set on becoming an astronaut.

"I wish they'd let me in one — (of those rockets) — then get those cotton-picking RCMP out of the way."

Turks Alert Armed Forces As Bullets Fly in Cyprus

NICOSIA (UPI) — Turkish military forces were placed on full alert today as the government sealed international airports and called for an urgent meeting of Turkey's parliament to debate a seven-hour battle on Cyprus which shattered a month-long truce.

Tension rapidly built up after Wednesday's shoot-out on the Mediterranean island between Turkish and Greek Cypriot police and national guard units. The fighting was halted late in the evening after the United Nations force on the island negotiated a ceasefire.

EMERGENCY SESSION

The Turkish cabinet met in emergency session in Ankara. The chiefs of the army, navy and air force were called in to the meeting which continued early this morning.

Turkish general staff chief Cemal Tural warned during a break in the cabinet meeting "an intervention on Cyprus is possible if needed."

Turkish parliamentarians were called to an urgent and secret meeting of the national assembly this afternoon to discuss the Cyprus clash and developments.

Informal sources said the government was expected to demand parliamentary approval for authority to send troops out of Turkey.

Talks Broken Off In Press Dispute

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 22.5-per-cent wage increase in a three-year contract for editorial, advertising and other office employees of the Sun and the Province was turned down, Pacific Press Ltd. said Wednesday.

The company said the offer was made to the Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild Wednesday.

The guild said later that negotiations have been suspended.

The guild represents about 600 editorial, circulation, advertising, business office and maintenance department employees.

The guild and three of four craft unions at the newspapers served strike notice Monday.

The proposed contract, retroactive to July 1, includes annual wage increases of 8, 7 and 6 per cent "to be compounded, bringing the over-all increase over three years of the contract to 22.5 per cent."

The offer included longer vacations and a willingness on the part of the company "to discuss further adjustments in the lower wage classifications."

The guild said it was not prepared to accept the offer.

The guild's agents turned to Hughes Aircraft scientists for help because Howard Hughes recently bought the Desert Inn, Sands Hotel and other properties here.

The cheating scheme involves an electronic pulsating device and the rubbing of cobalt 60 on dice. When the pulsating device is turned on, the treated dice will react.

The system is somewhat similar to a magnetic field, but it cannot be stopped by ordinary magnetic detection methods.

Johnson said he had heard that the device was used at the Dunes Hotel. About a month ago officials at the hotel reported that a fantastic number of points had been made at the dice table, costing the casino $300,000.

"Someone was in town, they had it and they used it," Johnson said. But he added he is not convinced that it was actually used at the Dunes or that it works.

Mulligan, however, said the inventor of the device told him it was used at the Dunes. The inventor said he checked a gaming table with a scintillator and the instrument detected radiation.

The inventor, according to Johnson, admitted that he made one such device but said that he does not have it now.

Science Asked to Help

Dunes Done In by Dangerous Dice

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (LAT) — An electronic cheating scheme using dice coated with dangerous cobalt 60 was under investigation Wednesday by the Nevada gambling control board. The plot may already have cost one casino $300,000.

The board is asking Hughes Aircraft scientists to help find a means of detecting use of the device which could break every gambling house in Nevada.

The system also constitutes a possible health hazard.

Cobalt 60 is a heavy radioactive isotope used in medical research and in the treatment of cancer. Large amounts give off harmful radiation.

Robert Mulligan, agent in charge of electronics for the Nevada Gambling Control Board, said he talked to the inventor of the device here Tuesday afternoon. He identified him only as a steepjack from San Diego.

"It's a feasible trick," Mulligan said. "We are going to release information to all licensees (casinos) on how to prevent it. Its theoretic possibilities are great."

Frank Johnson, chairman of the gaming board, also confirmed by telephone from Carson City that the board was "looking into it seriously."

The board's agents turned to Hughes Aircraft scientists for help because Howard Hughes recently bought the Desert Inn, Sands Hotel and other properties here.

Israeli Shipping May Lose Red Sea Route

BEIRUT (LAT) — Israeli shipping will be prevented from using the Red Sea after Britain withdraws from South Arabia, a member of the high command of South Arabia's National Liberation Front has disclosed.

The statement was made by Abdel Fattah Ismail, an NLF leader and member of the team which will negotiate the turnover of power in South Arabia with Britain in Geneva next week. The NLF announced Sunday that its forces had taken over the island of Perim at the entrance of the Red Sea which controls shipping routes there.

NO INTEREST

Britain had tried earlier to get Perim put under United Nations control because of its strategic importance. The attempt was dropped when other powers showed little interest. (See also Page 12.)

Israel gets all her oil and many other imports through the Red Sea to the port of Eilat on the Gulf of Aqaba. It was Egyptian closure of the Aqaba Gulf which precipitated the Arab-Israeli war last June.

Campbell to Hear 'Different' Adults

DARE TO BE A DANIEL: There have been conferences and meetings galore to discuss adoption, Mrs. Bernice Levitz Packford runs them almost continually, but for three days in December there will be a meeting with a difference.

Minister of Social Welfare Dan Campbell will participate personally in a conference on adoption to be held Dec. 8, 9 and 10 at the McPherson Playhouse.

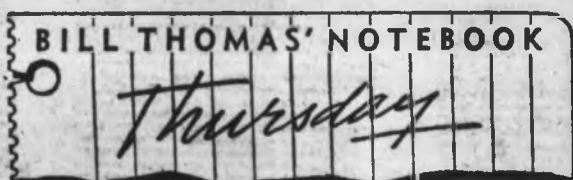

The conference is also different from usual in that it will include parents who have decided to adopt, and adults who were raised as adopted children.

Mr. Campbell gets into the act as a moderator in a panel discussion on the opening day. Keynote speaker for the conference will be Myron Chevin, assistant director, Child Welfare League of America.

In addition to the lay participants there will be a panel of representatives from the church, medicine, law, education, finance, social work, and the administration of the department of social welfare.

OLD LADE, NEW SYMBOL: The Empress Hotel has adopted the new look to do with the facade she is getting during Operation Teacup.

In his weekly statement to his staff, manager Les Parkinson says it is "a stylized capital E which invokes the strong image of the hotel itself, the crown marking the regal touch for which the Empress is world famous, the small circles or dots as a jewelled reference to the richness of her hospitality."

Mr. Parkinson predicts that the big E is going to be as "famous as the Empress herself. Would you believe almost as famous?" I think we might eventually come to believe that.

Teacup now is in progress in the Georgian Lounge, and it should be through by Jan. 3.

HOLY CATS: If you ever got in wondering why the United Appeal gives money to the SPCA, think this over: In an average month the local branch has to cope with close to 600 cats — some for painless destruction, some for adoption and some just strays.

Manager Dave Beeching has this trick question: How many stray cats do you think we pick up in a month? The answer: 110.

The trick part of the question: "How many are claimed by their owners? The sad fact: an average of about five.

The cat problem is coped with along with rabbits, dogs, goats, birds, oil-soaked seabirds, and a lot more things.

CHECK AND COMPARE:

There seems to be a bit of confusion over meat prices, especially in the cut-price field. A member of the staff of Swift Canadian cleared up the matter by explaining that Swift Tendered meat is a commercial grade of beef that has been made more palatable by the use of injections of tenderizer into the living animal prior to slaughter.

The price comparison is usually between this type of meat and the regular Swift product, graded as Canada Number 1 or 2. The Tendered beef is fine but it is still not the same as the two top grades.

Pressed for Action

Columbia Faces Loss of Filter

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University under pressure from academic and governmental circles over its licensing arrangements for the Strickman cigarette filter, may drop its control over the filter, CBS News reported Wednesday.

CBS said the inventor, Robert Strickman, might sue to regain licensing control for himself if Columbia doesn't act soon.

A Columbia University spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny the report, but that Columbia is going ahead with plans to begin extensive tests of the filter later this month in Strickman's laboratory in Hillsdale, N.J.

Strickman announced at a press conference this summer that he was donating to the university a controlling interest in his filter, which he claimed could eliminate 40 per cent of cigarette tars and nicotine.

Columbia still would retain rights to about 50 per cent of profits from the filter if it relinquished its licensing control, Strickman told CBS.

Don't Make Beer Daily Habit Particularly at College Age

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: We have two boys in college and are concerned over the amount of beer they consume. How much beer can young men drink without damaging their health?—M.C.G.

There isn't, obviously, any hard and fast rule about this, but there are some things to keep in mind.

One is that alcohol is alcohol whether it is whisky in a tigger, gin in a cocktail, any liquor in a highball, or beer or wine.

It isn't generally recognized that the amount of alcohol is approximately the same in a tigger of whisky, glass of wine, a bottle of beer, or any of the other forms of drink. Whether it is diluted or concentrated, the alcohol is there.

Cirrhosis of the liver is one of the penalties of too much alcohol, although there are other causes of this disease. This is a fact not easily accepted by the many folks who argue that beer and wine are harmless.

The amount of alcohol consumed is what counts, regardless of the form. True, one can down several drinks of straight liquor in the time it takes for one glass of beer, but the total quantity of alcohol is still what counts. One rule of thumb is that if 30 per cent of a person's calorie intake is alcohol, he has a 75 per cent chance of getting cirrhosis.

Your Good Health

From the standpoint of health, I'd be perfectly happy if nobody drank anything alcoholic until older than college age, but what we prefer and what the college students are going to insist on doing are two different things.

WITHOUT HARM

As second choice, I would hope that college drinkers understand the truth about alcohol. Some people can tolerate very little alcohol, others can handle more without harm. But one thing is certain: The fellow who is at college age, and who begins to pride himself on the amount he can consume is heading for trouble. The trouble may come soon, or it may wait a decade or two, but it will catch up to him.

So my advice is to take it very easy. Don't make beer a daily habit. Habits grow. They start when we are young. But they grow.

North Adds If

U.S. Visit Possible

PARIS (Reuters) — North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong, in an interview published Wednesday, said his government would closely study any request by U.S. officials to visit North Vietnam if they came to observe the results of American bombing.

But in the interview, printed by the left wing French weekly Nouvel Observateur, Dong reiterated that the United States must unconditionally cease the war before negotiations could take place.

The idea of American officials going to observe the results of bombing was brought up by French reporter Olivier Todd in an interview in Hanoi last week.

He asked Dong "do you believe it would be useful and possible for you to receive a delegation of U.S. officials, not pacifists, who would come as observers, not negotiators?"

Dong replied: "This is an interesting idea and worth studying very closely."

The purpose of the visit would be to check the results of American bombing, which North Vietnam contends is not aimed primarily at military and industrial targets—contrary to repeated U.S. government statements.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. defence department announced Wednesday 10 areas in the United States will be surveyed as possible sites for the "thin" antiballistic missile system to be built as protection against nuclear attack by China.

The areas are in the vicinity of Albany, Ga.; Chicago; Dallas; Grand Forks Air Force Base, N.D.; Oahu, Hawaii; Salt Lake City; Seattle; Boston; Detroit and New York.

Hebrews Demand Halt to Bombing

Progress Pleases Advisers

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senior U.S. representatives in Vietnam, back for a detailed stocktaking with President Johnson, sounded the official line Wednesday that the war is going much better than many Americans seem to think.

"It is very, very encouraging," said Gen. William Westmoreland, the U.S. military commander. "I have never been more encouraged my four years in Vietnam."

Ellsworth Bunker, American ambassador back after his first six months in Saigon, told a private congressional meeting of "steady" progress militarily, politically and in pacification.

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Union of American Hebrew Congregations Wednesday passed a resolution calling for a halt to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam as a prelude to peace talks.

The measure was only passed after an extended floor battle that was marked at times by bitterness from both sides of the resolution.

The UAHG is the central body of reform Judaism in the United States and Canada, embodying more than 650 congregations.

The heat of the debate on Vietnam only slightly exceeded a floor battle on a resolution calling for acceptance of general conscientious objection based on the U.S. Supreme Court decision in the Seeger case.

The case, a landmark in the widening of grounds for conscientious objection, allowed a draftee to claim exemption of beliefs parallel to traditional religions.

Lottery Suffers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lagging New York state lottery has suffered another setback with U.S. Senate passage of a bill prohibiting federally-insured banks from selling lottery tickets.

Compromise Offer

NUMBERS of individual nations are pulling their weight in the so-far futile exercise to find a formula for Middle East settlement. The trouble is they are pulling in different directions. And if one party to the dispute is covered by the terms of settlement proposed, the other is immediately exposed. For the cloth is just not wide enough to blanket rival requirements. Before a workable peace plan can be found Arabs and Israelis must move closer together.

Besides the chief antagonists, there are the major powers involved which also must be satisfied by any settlement for the sake of their own prestige and possible future advantage.

Britain has tried again to break the deadlock in the Security Council, which already has two resolutions before it, one introduced by India, Mali and Nigeria, and rejected by Israel, and the other, sponsored by the United States which is not acceptable to the Arabs.

Argentina and Brazil are also circulating a compromise plan, but little hope is seen of a required nine-nation vote favorable to any formula so far suggested.

Meanwhile, Egypt has reaffirmed its determination that only complete evacuation of occupied territory will be an acceptable first step towards a peaceful solution. And Israel, once again, repeats her insistence on direct negotiation to end the state of belligerence before withdrawal will be considered.

To end this stalemate, Britain is understood to be trying to convince the Israelis that United Nations mediation provides the best hope of reaching the negotiating stage of the peace effort. Israel is now believed to be relenting in its hard-line attitude towards the UN whose effective good offices, and even good will it doubts, but might accept UN mediation on condition it would lead ultimately to direct talks with the Arabs.

Israel is reluctant to place her security in trust by withdrawal. But according to the progress of talks the rate of departure from occupied Arab areas could be determined.

It sounds like a sensible start. The problem for Britain is to sell the idea to both sides and put an end to the foot-dragging in the Security Council.

Message to Moscow

THE GREAT concern with which U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara recently announced his belief that the Soviet Union may be developing a new intercontinental nuclear bomb leads one to wonder why he bothered announcing it at all. For every question asked at a news conference he had a reassuring answer.

The "fractional orbital bombardment system" on which the Russians seem to have been working, Mr. McNamara said in effect, wouldn't be much of a weapon.

The "FOBS", the defence secretary explained, would be bombs launched into comparatively low orbital paths and then braked by rockets to drop out of orbit on approaching their targets. The conventional intercontinental ballistic missiles, by way of comparison, follow a ballistic trajectory from launch point to target and ascend far higher.

The hoped-for advantage of the orbital weapons over ballistic missiles would be that the former, because of their lower and shorter paths, would avoid detection by the early-warning radars aimed at the latter, and thus would cut warning time from 15 minutes to three. But, said Mr. McNamara:

● Because the orbital bomb would be much less accurate or efficient than the ballistic missile, there would be no point in using it except against "time-urgent" targets—not against well-protected U.S. missiles in their silos, nor against cities which couldn't be moved, but against U.S. bombers on the ground.

● The United States, however, will have fully operational next year an over-the-horizon radar system which will detect orbital launchings and recapture the warning time needed to get a portion of the intercontinental bombing force off the ground.

● The Soviet Union could not launch the orbital bombs in the guise of innocent, ordinary satellites because the numbers of them needed to knock out all the U.S. bomber bases would be a clear giveaway, and they could be destroyed in orbit.

● And with three minutes warning, 15 minutes or none at all, the United States could still strike back with sufficient strength to destroy the attacking nation as a viable society.

Since the possible development of the FOBS gives the United States so little to worry about in the defence experts' estimation, it seems strange in a way that the defence secretary would choose publicly to disclose that his country's intelligence services have concluded that this is what the Soviets have been working on.

Possibly he feared that the information would leak out in more alarming form. But though he said no to a questioner who asked if the announcement was in some way an effort to convey something to the Russians, it undoubtedly would have this effect too.

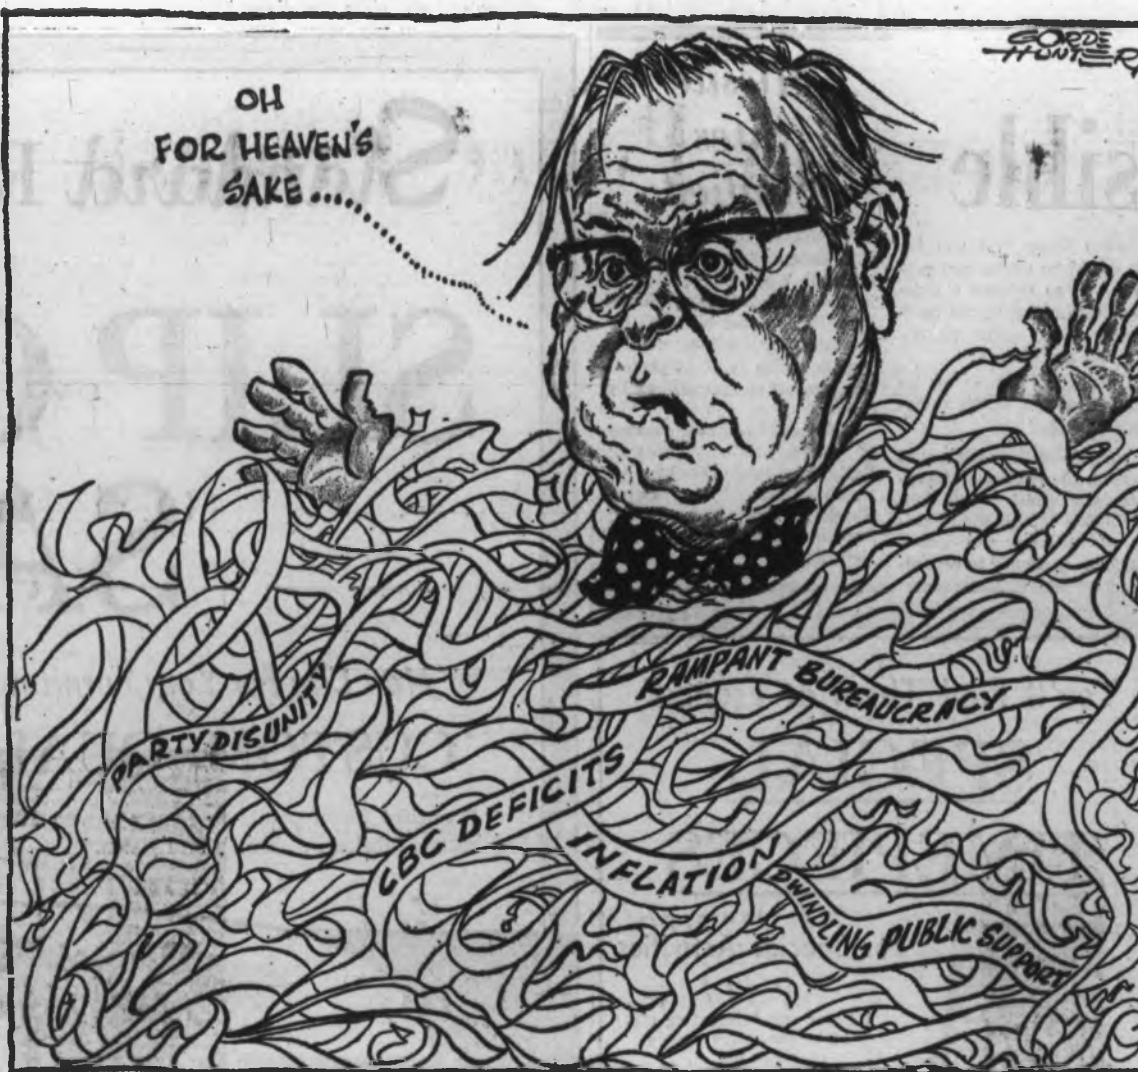

The Russians hardly could miss the message when Mr. McNamara stressed that here was another example of action leading to reaction as between the two great nuclear powers; that "you can continue to expect that, and this is the reason why this government so strongly believes that it is in our national interest to engage in discussions of this subject with the Soviets."

More Restrooms

THE PETITIONS being circulated by the Senior Citizens Campaign Council of Greater Victoria for more public restrooms in the downtown area merit support. The petitions request the city to install the additional restrooms at suitable locations "in the interests of all our people but most particularly for our elderly citizens." There is another consideration, too: the comfort of Victoria's visitors.

The latter are often at the disadvantage of not knowing where to find public facilities, as anyone knows who has been in a strange city deficient in such accommodation. But even for residents and particularly for the elderly, it can be a long way to the nearest restroom in the present circumstances.

With the civic elections almost at hand, and candidates eager to please the electorate, the senior citizens have chosen an opportune time to draw attention to this need.

A strong, reassuring statement from our glorious leader.

Provincial Treasurers Await Federal Formula To Save the Nation From Inflationary Perils

THE provincial treasurers came to town today to hear from Finance Minister Sharp what he — with their help — proposes doing about inflation with its rising cost-of-living and falling purchasing power of the dollar.

The mayors and other representatives of some 50 leading Canadian municipalities have had the treatment.

The finance minister is being very sporting about it. He's appealing for public support — been doing it, without much success, for a couple of months now — for "restraints" on cost, wage and price increases, now under the pressure of promised tax hikes.

Meanwhile, he has been given warning that he's going to have a nationally spotlighted opportunity to practise what he preaches and make the federal government a national example of good economic housekeeping. And not the unconvincing example of cutting "hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars," as Prime Minister Pearson has described it, from next year's government spending program — some, perhaps much of it, money that wouldn't have been spent anyway.

Presenting him, exquisitely timed, this real chance of a finance minister's lifetime to set the style in restraint are the federal government's own away workers in particular and civil servants in general.

The seaway workers — who, not too long ago, touched the match to the inflation rocket with the 30 per cent wage increase the government gave them to end their strike — are back for another 20 per cent.

And the vast army of the 200,000 civil service begins collective bargaining in the new year with the government.

Canada's financial leaders — and even some very senior federal bureaucrats such as Civil Service Commission Chairman John J. Carson — have charged publicly that the government itself is to blame for the inflation of over-spending, over-staffing and, with some of its people, over-paying.

Politicians — and Mitchell

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

Sharp and his cabinet colleagues are as political as they come — get elected by promising more programs, more welfare (medicine) and more handouts. They never get elected by promising more taxes.

But they must pay off their promises.

And there are only three ways of raising the money: 1. increasing taxes; 2. borrowing from the public through sale of government bonds; 3. printing more currency.

The finance minister already has gone just about the limit with borrowing — and, finish the experts, even beyond the acceptable limit of printing more dollars.

That leaves taxes.

But raising taxes is obviously politically unpalatable.

So what to do?

Easy. Plead for public support for "restraint."

This shifts the glare of responsibility from the public sector (the government) to the private sector (business, industry, and the wage and salary earners) of the economy.

Then, when the pleas don't work all that well — and wages and prices continue up, some, as in the automobile industry, towards parity with American levels — break the sad, bad news of the tax increase.

Break it gently, with reluctance. Do it more in sorrow than in anger.

But do it with a straight face, emphasizing how unpalatable it is personally for you as finance minister to take this hard course.

That, unfortunately, has been necessitated by the failure of business, industry and labor to hold the line.

That way, you, as the finance minister, get out from under the public blame, and calmly take your big-spending government with you.

Name of the game is politics. Or, as bluff old C. D. "Trader" Howe, the straight-talking former trade minister, used to say: "Tax and spend, tax and spend."

On European Pattern . . .

Many Far-Sighted Politico-Economists Are Planning For South and Central American Common Market

AN over-riding aim in Latin America is to unite the countries into one large common market, making them economically like a single country extending from the banks of the Rio Grande to the tip of Argentina. Full economic integration is believed necessary if these countries are to break away from the extreme poverty and backwardness under which millions of their people live.

Tariffs would be completely abolished among the countries and trade would flow freely anywhere within the region. People could move about without restriction; businessmen and workers could freely seek opportunities for their funds and talents. A common currency is part of the plan. This ambitious program has much to be said for it, but the problems are many and formidable, as the Latin Americans are well aware. Nevertheless, they are not being deterred but are pushing ahead with preparations.

Can Latin America succeed in this bold program and will the rewards be as expected? How will it affect the United States? The Europeans have shown that they can create a workable common market, with impressive benefits—and this despite President Charles de Gaulle with his foot on the brake. The Latin Americans have observed what has happened in Europe, and their presidents recently committed the countries to the progressive establishment of a common market beginning in 1970. It is to be completed no later than 1985. The United States strongly supports the program.

The Latin American countries consider it essential that they get out from under dependence upon a few commodities—coffee, sugar, bananas, copper, etc. The world demand for most of their commodities has lagged, whereas that for industrial goods has zoomed. They believe a common market will promote industry, expand exports and build a solid base for economic and social progress. Industrialization and diversification of production, words frequently heard, are believed vital; Latin America can and should produce a wide variety of manufactured goods that are now imported.

The hard fact is that Latin American industries face competition from the industrial giants in the advanced countries, and that unless something is done the prospects of getting industries on a strong and efficient basis are not very bright—at least in the near future. Latin America has abundant resources and cheap labor, but the national markets are generally too small to permit large, strong industries and low cost operations. The region is broken up into small compartments since the countries apply tariffs against each other.

With the removal of tariffs and other barriers among the countries, Latin American industries would have a vast protected market in which to sell, grow and become efficient. Investment capital would be attracted, resources developed and the countries, hopefully, would step into the modern world where labor is well rewarded, output expands and living standards rise rapidly. This is a nutshell in the case for a common market.

The obstacles to be overcome, however, are not simple. They include: strong feelings of national sovereignty and advantage leading to rivalries, suspicion and military preparedness—which the countries cannot afford; vested interests which do not welcome competition from outside; serious inflation; lack of capital; vast geographic distances with poor communications; political instability and jockeying for position.

The Central American Common Market (CACM), on the other hand, is a going concern with across-the-board tariff cuts which have opened the countries to each other's goods on an almost completely free trade basis. A common currency is being planned; other measures of economic integration have been introduced or are in process. The Central American countries have benefited greatly and are enthusiastic

The author has served as economic adviser to the Chilean government and recently spent a year in Central America under the auspices of the United States state department preparing a program of monetary union for the Central American Common Market. For several years he served as chief of the division of international finance in the state department. He is a distinguished lecturer at California State College.

disapproval of the military governments by those elected by democratic processes; and wide gaps between the most advanced and least developed countries within the region.

The small poor countries like Bolivia, Ecuador and Paraguay fear that if they open their markets on a preferential basis to the partially industrialized countries of Mexico, Brazil and Argentina they will be swamped with high cost manufactured goods, and also be unable to develop their own industries. In the large countries influential groups appear in no great hurry for economic integration which would mean a wider sharing of their markets. A proposed solution for the small countries is to permit them a longer period for tariff reductions. The large countries are prepared to concede this.

The present Latin American Free Trade Association (LAFTA), comprising all the South American countries, plus Mexico, has during its six years been a disappointment, although it has some accomplishments to its credit. It has sought to reduce tariffs item by item rather than on an across the board basis. It also lacks a strong administrative structure. Its meetings have been marked by wrangling over tariff cuts, which have applied largely to items of little importance.

The Central American Common Market (CACM), on the other hand, is a going concern with across-the-board tariff cuts which have opened the countries to each other's goods on an almost completely free trade basis. A common currency is being planned; other measures of economic integration have been introduced or are in process. The Central American countries have benefited greatly and are enthusiastic over their common market program.

Central America is, however, now confronted with serious problems; the easy phase of integration is behind them. Balance of payments deficits and other difficulties have resulted from a decline in exports and an end to the boom which helped the market develop so rapidly. Plans are under way to combine the CACM with the projected common market for all of Latin America, but the Central Americans wish to see their program further along before they open their doors more widely to goods from the large countries.

A sub-regional group of countries — Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Venezuela — impatient at the slow progress toward a common market, has been organized; it plans joint undertakings and hopes to speed general integration. The Andean group, as it is called, constitutes a counter-weight to the influence of the three large countries, Argentina, Brazil and Mexico.

While progress toward a common market is bound to be slow and spotty, the prospects are that Latin America will eventually achieve some form of a common market, with all or most of the countries participating. The advantages are great and compelling. Political union is discussed, but is recognized as far off.

The United States stands to benefit since a main U.S. foreign policy objective is to promote economic and social progress in the less developed countries, as well as their political stability. Moreover, the best U.S. customers are the higher income countries. The U.S. would not, however, wish to see Latin America become

Tax Structure Queried

YOUR Nov. 7 editorial on property taxation is depressing. It maintains that property taxes should be based on saleable value of the property, that those owning property whose saleable value rises should subsidize those whose property doesn't rise in sale value. You use the term "when they come to sell."

It therefore seems to be the opinion of your editorial writers that people merely live on property waiting for the day when they can make a fat profit on its sale.

No doubt there are some people with this outlook. If so, there is surely little objection to their having to part with some of the proceeds to the municipality. This could best be done by a capital gains tax on property only, tax to go into municipal coffers.

A tax of this nature makes sense. It does not penalize those wishing to live on and retain a chosen piece of property because they like it and maybe hope one day their children will have it—even their children's children. This might tend to induce a feeling of permanence in our society, a quality sadly lacking in much of North America.

It may be a Utopian dream to hope that once again taxes bear some relation to services provided; but at least let's try and devise a more sensible and equitable property tax formula which does not penalize property owners who live on their properties because they like them.

The people of North Saanich have been advised by Stevenson and Kellogg, amalgamation study report experts, that they must "develop aggressively" or go under. This is a pretty ghastly philosophy; if true, there is indeed something very wrong with the property tax structure. Let's change it.

Why Is It?

Sunday evening (Nov. 5) I watched "Way It Is" and witnessed another of these disgusting programs thrown at us by the CBC.

I admit abortion is a very important subject and should be fully discussed by our federal government at the earliest opportunity, but to be thrown on our TV screens in such a crude manner is very poor taste on the part of the individuals who are responsible for the programming of this government-controlled corporation.

The CBC swallows up quite a portion of our tax dollars, but when one looks back at "the tripe," under the heading of "educational," put on by this concern, (one) cannot help but wonder how long the Canadian taxpayer is going to stand for this state of affairs.

I feel Miss LaMarsh is putting it mildly when she terms the "top management" as "rotten," and I hope it will not be long before she is given the "go ahead" signal to clean up this mess and get a "top brass" who understands the requirements of

We pay for it. Let's have a return for our money.

Back to Work

It must be a source of considerable satisfaction to many electors that Mr. Pearson has told three of his cabinet ministers to carry on with the jobs for which they are paid, instead of caving around the country campaigning for the leadership. Had he shown that kind of authority, and had he kept his house in order with the appointment of men selected for their suitability rather than for personal or political reasons, his government might have stood the test of time better than it has. May we hope that the record will prove a warning for his successors?

Question

Pardon my asking — but why is it that movements for "national liberation" are found only in the Free World, while "captive" nations are found only in the communist world?

Why have we seen no "peace" protests against Egypt for its "aggressions" against Israel, but plenty of them against Greece for preventing a communist coup? Why have there been no demonstrations against the Bolshevik talk of sending a guided missile into orbit around the world? And why have loyalty and patriotism become dirty words while revolution and "social change" are placed in a Holy Grail. Why is it OK to dissent while to dissent against the dissenters or their dissension is labelled fascist? Why, oh why, in this great society is it considered so wrong to be right?

LEN ERICKSON,

The CBC

It is most interesting to read the statements by the secretary of state, the Hon. Judy LaMarsh, that in some aspects the operation of the CBC was "rotten."

For a long time past I believed there was something "rotten in Denmark," as the saying is, and practically all the people I've heard speak on the subject thought much the same: "Television programs are getting worse all the time." But for some reason the CBC was treated as a sacred cow and must not be criticized out loud.

Newspapers, broadcasters and public speakers make a great issue of Vietnam, LSD and the hippies but very little criticism of CBC. Why? It seems our representatives in Ottawa have very little to say in regard to the CBC. Why?

We are now faced with ever increasing taxes for the CBC, and subject to ever increasing advertising.

What do we get for this? Mostly a lot of degrading westerners depicting fighting, bloodshed and killing; chasing through the mountains on horseback after a supposed killer and lynchings on the spot. These callous and vicious pictures of American life do not help to improve relations with our friends below the border.

Why do we have so many poor programs with our large outlay of money to the CBC as well as huge payments from the sponsors, who, we're told, decide the calibre of our programs. If so, this is wrong.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover, Jr., told the United Nations General Assembly 11 years ago today — in 1956 — that the UN would be obliged to take action if so-called Soviet volunteers were sent to the troubled Middle East. He reminded the General Assembly of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's statement that the United States would fully support such action.

First World War: Fifty years ago today — in 1917 — Georges Clemeneau formed a new French cabinet; German attacks on French positions in Belgium were repulsed; Austro-German troops failed to break through Italian lines on the Piave River.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today — in 1942 — the Russians made slight gains in Stalingrad and the Natchik area; the British 8th Army occupied Derna and El Mekili; Sydney Robey Leibbrandt, former South African Olympic boxer, faced trial as a German saboteur on a treason charge.

MPs Put Wilson On Rack

By EDWIN ROTH, from London
Special to the Colonist

The biggest rebellion inside the British Labor Party since the Second World War was caused by a House of Commons speech by Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan. In it, Callaghan said Britain's economy needs a permanent pool of unemployed.

More than 70 Labor MPs — among them not only leftists, but even Labor right-wingers — signed a formal parliamentary motion deploring and rejecting Callaghan's view on unemployment.

These rebellious Laborites demand a House of Commons debate for their censure motion. If they vote for it together with the Tories, Callaghan would have to resign, and government policy would have to change.

But Prime Minister Harold Wilson — faced with civil war in his party — refused to allow a House of Commons debate. Instead, he will discuss Britain's desperately sick economy at a private caucus meeting with Labor parliamentarians — but only on Nov. 21.

A new immensely serious pound sterling crisis might easily occur before that date. On Nov. 20, Britain will probably be prevented by France from joining the European Common Market. All this would enable Wilson on Nov. 21 to demand total loyalty in a crisis situation.

Socialism Failing

In every way, British socialism is now seen to be failing. Wilson's greatest political difficulty is that everything said abroad about Britain's economy by the Labor government or its representatives is heard and read in Britain — while the foreigners on whom life or death of Britain's economy depends read and hear what the British government says in Britain.

The Labor government cannot say abroad that it recognizes a permanent pool of unemployed to be essential for Britain's economy — and at the same time advocate in Britain the Labor party's most sacred socialist principle of full employment.

Courageous Remark

On Nov. 7, Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan said courageously in the House of Commons, despite the wild fury of many Laborites: "I agree with what the governor of the Bank of England said in Buenos Aires. It is true. It is true."

Of course it is true. But the hard economic truth is exactly what most Laborites don't want to know. For many years, industrial discipline in Britain has broken down, because almost every British worker has known since 1945 that whenever he loses his job he can immediately get another one.

And because employers suffered under labor shortages, Britain has become a unique paradise for the lazy, the lethargic, the inefficient, the slovenly, the unscrupulous, and the mediocre.

Every strike for higher pay has been won — often a strike threat was enough — regardless whether these pay increases were earned or justified.

This atmosphere is one reason why large crowds of dynamic and talented Britons flee to the United States and Canada. Because of all this, many British products are not competitive in the world's markets. Unreliable delivery dates and contract breaches caused by unpunishable laziness, apathy, and inefficiency have harmed the reputation of British products throughout the world.

Friends Help Out

The argument that many other nations lose more working time by strikes than Britain is irrelevant. Those other nations have healthy, solvent economies, while Britain is constantly threatened by national bankruptcy.

Britain's living standard is very much higher than what Britain earns.

The difference between the cost of this living standard and Britain's actual earnings is paid by Britain's foreign friends — especially the United States — in huge loans whenever Britain's economy faces imminent collapse, usually before the previous

Confidence Lost

All parliamentary byelections in recent months prove that Wilson has lost the confidence of millions of traditional Laborites. A national election today would be disastrously lost by Wilson — with it is estimated, a Conservative majority of 100 seats in the House of Commons. Today, Wilson's government is completely unrepresentative.

The 750,000 unemployed expected this winter does not mean permanent unemployment for 750,000 people — but that several times this number may be unemployed for a few weeks.

These people and their families — the overwhelming majority of them traditional Labor supporters — know nothing about economics. But their fury can destroy Wilson's government.

A recent Gallup poll showed that 67 per cent of Britain's voters would prefer permanent inflation with constantly rising wages and rising prices to even the smallest amount of unemployment.

Callaghan would have to resign, and government policy would have to change.

But Prime Minister Harold Wilson — faced with civil war in his party — refused to allow a House of Commons debate. Instead, he will discuss Britain's desperately sick economy at a private caucus meeting with Labor parliamentarians — but only on Nov. 21.

A new immensely serious pound sterling crisis might easily occur before that date. On Nov. 20, Britain will probably be prevented by France from joining the European Common Market. All this would enable Wilson on Nov. 21 to demand total loyalty in a crisis situation.

After Wilson deliberately created unemployment which is expected to mean at least 750,000 unemployed — perhaps more — in Britain this winter, he told the Labor party convention on Oct. 4 that he rejected the creation of a permanent unemployment pool.

But the next day, on Oct. 5, Bank of England governor Sir Leslie O'Brien declared in Buenos Aires: "It is impossible to manage a large industrial economy with the very small margin of unused manpower that characterized the British economy in the 1940s and 1950s." In simpler words this means that Britain has too few unemployed.

Wilson's deliberate creation of unemployment in a desperate attempt to impose some industrial discipline had recently cost the Labor government disastrous by-election defeats.

Trained to Use Army Weapons

German Police Protest

By ANTONY TERRY, from Bonn

More than 100,000 civilian policemen in West Germany and West Berlin are being trained to use army weapons, including hand grenades, three-inch mortars, machine-guns, and armored cars, partly equipped with 20 mm. cannon.

These disclosures were made here — after reports of industrial unrest in the Ruhr — by the police themselves, whose union is under pressure from its members to have the training stopped.

A police spokesman said: "We still view with horror the German police battalions of the last war."

The Bonn government has assured the police that plans to give them combatant status in an emergency have now been dropped, but government officials maintain that the army-type weapons "may be needed to break resistance of armed criminals in possession of similar weapons."

"Ridiculous," retorted a police spokesman. "Whoever heard of a criminal in an armored car with a 20 mm. cannon or a policeman needing to shell a burglar with a three-inch mortar?"

Dr. Werner Kuhlmann, president of the West German Police Union, is to put the matter to parliament later this month. He will tell the deputies that the police will refuse to go along with this "combatant status by the back door" and with the projected use of troops to cope with internal unrest, using the police with their armored cars and mortars to back up the army.

Government officials say the armored car for the police has not yet been equipped with 20 mm. cannon, but the makers, a big truck firm in Bremen, have told police union officials that 20 of these cars have been delivered with a turret capable of mounting either a standard machine-gun or the cannon. Active training is going on in four of the 11 provinces.

China's UN Bid Will Fail Again

By ROD CURRIE
From United Nations

As the annual ritual of the China debate approaches, there is speculation here that although there might be some interesting switches in voting patterns the world organization will once again decide to keep Communist China out of the UN.

Canada, which made a major intervention in the debate last year in an effort to promote some new approach to the issue, has expressed disappointment at the response to these attempts and is not expected to pursue them this time.

Canada also switched from its traditional "no" vote on the question of seating the Peking government and instead abstained, as she is expected to do again this year.

The interest now centres on the Arab states, with many observers predicting they will switch to a position of support for Communist China as a rebuke to the United States for allegedly supporting Israel in the Arab-Israeli war in June. The U.S. has always spearheaded the campaign to exclude the Peking government. Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Libya — and possibly also Kuwait, Lebanon and Morocco — have been mentioned as countries likely to use this opportunity to take a swipe at the U.S.

But on the other side of the coin, Indonesia and Ghana, both of whom have thrown out pro-Communist regimes, might abstain this year instead of voting for Peking as in 1966.

Johnson Team's Floundering Damns Peace Bids

By JOSEPH KRAFT, from Washington

A common theme runs through General Westmoreland's visit to Washington this week and President Johnson's trip around the country last weekend.

It is the theme of an administration floundering, an administration desperately trying to shore up its position at home even at the cost of national objectives abroad.

Consider, first, General Westmoreland's visit. The message he is bringing to the country is the message of great progress, expressed in numbers of enemy dead, weapons recovered, and persons newly brought under the protection of the Saigon government.

Except for Walt Rostow, the president's special assistant for national security affairs, hardly any important civilian officials here are much impressed by these numbers. For one thing, even assuming the figures are right, they bear no clear relation to an end to the conflict.

Most Washington officials, moreover, know that body counts on the battlefield rarely happen. They know that refugees from American bombing make up the great bulk of persons who have recently left territory controlled by the other side for territory controlled by the Saigon government.

But General Westmoreland is the expert on the spot. He has vast encyclopedias of information, even if he is not ideally equipped to evaluate it. Thus no one is going to debate him. His optimistic version of events is going to get by unchallenged.

That in itself would make no difference except to one group. There are inside the administration a few persons, highly placed in the Pentagon and the State Department, who are working up projects for a negotiated settlement. All of these approaches necessarily imply some kind of concessions to the other side.

But if the administration's public position is that the other side is cracking, that the U.S. is near victory, then there is no reason to make these concessions. Indeed, they should not be made.

Thus the one real consequence of the Westmoreland visit is to set back and further encumber the few persons inside the administration who are seriously thinking about ways to negotiate out.

A similar impression derives from Johnson's cross-country tour of the weekend. The

All-Time High Reached By London Industrials

The London Stock Market ignored all the accepted economic barometers Wednesday when equities were in such great demand that the principal indicator of industrial stocks rose to an all-time high.

The rise came on top of what looked like a new crisis for the pound. Earlier this week the Bank of International Settlements loaned Britain $250,000,000 on repayment terms up to 18 months.

The loan was needed to stabilize the pound in foreign exchange dealings after the British Board of Trade had reported an all-time monthly trade deficit of $299,600,000 for October.

PREVIOUS RECORD

It was $32,400,000 above the previous record established in 1964.

Some observers believed that the more positive line being taken by Prime Minister

Wilson, urging European industry to fight "American" inflation, may have given investors hope of a more positive approach to economic recovery by the theory-ridden British government.

On the other hand, recent quarterly reports from leading

Many of the factors which have depressed Chemcell earnings this year are temporary in character, according to E. S. Malone, president. They include competition from abroad, heavy start-up expenses, flattening out of the economy and overcapacity in many product lines.

How Calvert found a new way to make rye incredibly smooth.

CALVERT OF CANADA LTD., MONTREAL • TORONTO • VANCOUVER

The name of the rye is Grand Prix. We made it incredibly smooth by making it dry. And we made it dry by discovering a new way to make rye without any cloying sweetness. This makes Grand Prix a full-bodied rye so smooth you can actually sip it straight. And like it. It took Calvert ten years to make Grand Prix so smooth, and naturally our Master Blender is pretty proud of it. But try it yourself. In ten seconds you'll know why he's so proud.

Calvert Grand Prix. The world's first dry rye.

As more than one on simple adjournment.

The division bells rang for 40 minutes summoning MPs to vote—an unusual occurrence on a motion to adjourn.

The Liberals delayed the voting to wait for more of their members to arrive.

This caused some Conservatives to shout angrily across the floor: "Forty minutes for a free vote."

Prime Minister Pearson has promised a free vote on abolition of capital punishment and other "moral" issues to come before the Commons.

Stanfield told his followers they could vote as they wished on the adjournment motion. On his first day in the Commons, Stanfield ended up voting with the Liberals and against most of his supporters.

ble internationalizing the resources of the seabed and ocean floor.

Allan Gottlieb, assistant undersecretary of state for external affairs, joined earlier speakers in complimenting the delegation of Malta for bringing this matter before the UN—the only new item of this year's agenda.

Malta proposed that the seabed and the ocean floor be declared a common heritage, not subject to national appropriation, and that their development under an international agency be used primarily for development of poor countries. It also urged agreement that they be reserved for peaceful purposes.

The idea, similar to agreements on outer space, is surrounded by complex legal and political problems and observers predict it will be before the UN for years.

Gottlieb, referring to the deepsea as "the last remaining area of man's knowledge of his immediate environment still unexplored," said Canada regards the establishment of a peaceful, equitable and rational regime for its exploration and exploitation as a task requiring "careful and thorough examination" by the UN.

Referring to the many problems involved, he suggested that unless there were prior agreements there would follow

"the carving of the ocean floor into areas over which individual states would exercise or seek to exercise sovereign rights."

It could eventually give rise to serious differences between states whose coasts are opposite one another; and it could also lead to a situation where less-developed countries would be at a definite disadvantage.

Gottlieb, and a number of other speakers, have pointed out that the only international instrument dealing with national control over oceans and seas is the 1958 Geneva convention on the continental shelf, which now is highly inadequate in view of modern technology for ocean exploration.

Gottlieb, a native of Winnipeg, also noted that earlier speakers in the debate had implied that states could not be expected to abandon rights which have been firmly recognized by international law.

Stanfield Gears for Action

Tory leadership convention in September, took his place.

Referring to Stanfield's statement, the night before, that it was a "patriotic duty" to defeat the government, Prime Minister Pearson said: "I do not include in my offer of co-operation the realisation of the honorable gentleman's announced patriotic duty to bring about a general election without delay."

"I consider it my patriotic duty to save the country from a general election for as long as possible, though I do not expect any co-operation from the other side (the Tories) in that high endeavor."

As the other party leaders greeted Stanfield, there were screams of nervous humor.

Clearly, the power of the "new boy," as shown in recent polls, dominated the chamber.

Despite the display of humor, the barbs were coming through.

New Democrat leader T. C. Douglas observed:

Nova Scotia, we thought it would be better to get him out of the province before he wrecked the joint."

The New Democrats, he continued, thought it preferable to get Stanfield into the Commons "where the only thing he would wreck would be the Tory party."

"And in that endeavor, he will have our wholehearted co-operation."

"He cannot expect any help from the government because they are busy wrecking the economy of the country."

Later, Stanfield retorted: "I was a little surprised that when referring to my wrecking activities, he did not refer to the manner in which we had succeeded in wrecking his party (the New Democrats) in that province" — Nova Scotia.

The old chief, John Diefenbaker, stayed out of the chamber for the arrival of his successor.

A spokesman said he did not know why. Stanfield entered the chamber between Michael Starr, the former acting leader, and Theo Ricard, the Quebec lieutenant.

He smiled with a mixture of pleasure and embarrassment as he walked down the chamber, greeted at Prime Minister Pearson and stopped before the Speaker, Lucien Lamoureux.

Starr and Ricard asked permission for Stanfield to take his seat, and the Speaker granted it.

The chamber was jammed, as seldom it is, and the new leader was given a huge ovation.

The Tory front bench wore Tory-blue carnations. But no one was feeling blue.

The women in the galleries dazzled in the dinky usually seen only at the opening of Parliament.

Mrs. Stanfield was surrounded by the leading women of the party, across the chamber from Mrs. Pearson, the prime minister's wife.

Mrs. Stanfield smiled with wifely concern as her husband's first few nervous attempts at humor didn't quite score. And she beamed when he found his feet.

The new leader praised the Speaker, talked of the need to improve government and of the heavy responsibility on the opposition; "We will do our best to discharge it," he pledged. Outside the Commons, Stanfield was less cautious about his words.

"It is our duty to defeat the government (in the House when we can)," he said.

"Certainly we mean business. We are going to be effective. One of our tasks is to defeat the government." In the Commons, he said, his policy would be to get as good an attendance as possible for Tory votes. Asked if this meant there would be no "discreet abstentions" by Tories not coming into the House to vote, he replied: "We will stress this."

areas of South Vietnam killed 45 Americans and wounded 103.

Communist losses were 19 known killed, but American air strikes and artillery bombardments were believed to have killed many more whose bodies were hidden by thick jungle.

Communist gunners, opening up with easily portable mortar tubes from hills overlooking the valley base, struck as the highlands campaign 280 miles north of Saigon moved into a third week.

BIG BLAST

An earlier attack blew up a smaller ammunition dump at the nearby airstrip. Then the big ammo depot a few hundred yards away exploded in an enormous sheet of fire and flame towering hundreds of feet.

The flames and explosions rocked American field headquarters outside the village of Dak To, four miles from the Cambodian border. Hot shrapnel from exploding ammunition ripped into a special forces camp and set tents afire.

Some 600 Montagnard troops trained by U.S. "Green Beret" advisers had to be evacuated with their families.

JUNGLE FIGHT

Part of the ground war focus shifted Wednesday from the highlands to the jungles of "war zone C" just northwest of Saigon, an area of guerrilla strength for years.

Headquarters said an American helicopter assault into the jungles of Tay Ninh province and a guerrilla mortar attack on the base camp of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division at Cu Chi killed 18 Americans and wounded 38.

The fighting in Tay Ninh erupted 10 miles deeper into the jungles, and field reports described the combat as "heavy."

Spine Fusion Hailed, Cooled

Hiram Walker's Special Old Canadian Whisky is blended first; aged later. That's what makes it Special.

So special, in fact, that no one is allowed to enter our blending room except the handful of people who belong. After all, there's a whisky being born in there. Because a whisky is born when it's blended. (Most whiskies are blended just before they're bottled. Like maybe last week.) But Walker's Special Old was blended long ago. The very day that its ingredient whiskies were distilled. They were carefully and painstakingly combined.

Preblended. To reach that elusive point of perfection that creates Walker's Special Old. Only then were they sealed in white oak casks. To age and mellow. Together. The result is incomparable bouquet, flavour, and character. Our people take the longer, more difficult route to make Walker's Special Old. Because how else could we call it Special?

We blend it before we age it.

TORONTO (CP) — Reactions to Dr. Gordon Murray's medical breakthrough have ranged from congratulations to serious reservations.

On Tuesday, Dr. Murray told how he rejoined a shattered spinal cord "although all the books and all the experts had said this would never be done."

Dr. Murray proved that it could when Bertrand Proulx, 20-year-old truck driver from St. Jean, Quebec, stood before an audience of doctors Tuesday and showed that paraplegics can stand again.

THREE YEARS

Proulx had been paralysed three years following an accident in which he severed his spinal cord.

Dr. Ludwig Guttman, a paraplegic specialist, said Wednesday the spinal column cannot be rejoined, and added that the newspaper report describing the operation "does not sound feasible." Dr. Guttman directs the United Kingdom ministry of pensions spinal injuries centre at Aylesbury, England.

REPORT DOUBTED

Dr. John Mullan, chief of neurosurgery at the University of Chicago, at first expressed doubt and asked whether the report could be a swindle. When he was assured of Dr. Murray's reputation, he admitted it was "a tremendous step forward."

Dr. J. G. Love, senior neurology consultant at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota, said he would need a lot more information on the operation before he could express an opinion.

'VERY WONDERFUL'

"But if Dr. Murray has actually successfully rejoined a severed spinal cord he has done something very wonderful."

This is not the first time the 73-year-old doctor, a native of Stratford, Ont., has started the medical world.

He was a junior demonstrator in surgery at the University of Toronto in 1939 when he successfully performed the grafting of an artery.

'BLUE BABY'

He is probably best known internationally for a "blue baby" operation, first in Canada, 20 years ago. It drew him patients from four continents.

A former professor of surgery at the University of Toronto and chief of surgery at Toronto General Hospital, he said Tuesday he had experimented for eight years before daring to try the spinal-cord operation on human beings.

Bertrand Proulx was one of seven injured persons to volunteer for the operation, he said. Two were unsuccessful.

UN Settles Time Limit On New Mideast Line

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations Security Council, in effect, set itself Wednesday a tentative 24-hour time limit to at least make a start on some new approach to the Middle East problem that could command wide support.

It adjourned until 1 p.m. PST today after Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff urged members to make "additional and determined efforts in private consultations." Britain and the United States joined in appealing for prompt, concerted action towards an agreement.

Ignatieff, emphasizing the points of agreement between two different resolutions now before 15-nation council, said consultations should be aimed at seeing "if the differences that remain can be reconciled."

"I believe that there is a strong momentum in this council in favor of making further efforts to reach agreement."

Israel has flatly rejected a resolution by India, Mali and Nigeria that calls for withdrawal of Israeli forces to points occupied before the June Israeli-Arab war. Israel says such a plan is prejudicial to its negotiating position.

And there were predictions the Soviet Union, if necessary, would veto the other resolution in the U.S. which calls for withdrawal of armed forces from occupied territories without specifying when and to where.

Both resolutions call for dispatch of a UN envoy to the area but disagree on his mandate in seeking a settlement.

Meanwhile, there were reports that the Arab states had set a weekend deadline for the council to adopt a resolution they could accept or they would again take the issue before the 122-nation General Assembly.

Bonner Hails Super-Port Co-operation

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

B.C. is willing to co-operate with Ottawa on development of a proposed super-port at Roberts Bank — but the province won't stand for any delaying tactics by federal authorities, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Wednesday.

In response to an invitation by Transport Minister Paul Hellyer for federal-provincial talks on the issue, Mr. Bonner said he found the latest move by Ottawa "encouraging."

However, the attorney-general added: "My immediate interest is in port development now, and to ensure that development is not strung out over any 30-year period. That would amount not to port development, but to port delay."

"I want assurances that port development will be proposed immediately, not eventually. I think people want to be assured that we are engaged in strategy of planning, and not in the tactics of delay."

Concerning a $1,500,000,000 contract to sell B.C. coal to Japan, now being negotiated by Crows Nest Industries, Mr. Bonner said: "If the port comes by the early 1970s, as Mr. Hellyer suggests, it could be two or three years out of date."

Port Must Be There

"This requires some precision of definition by federal authorities, because the port has to be there if CNIL is to quote a firm price."

Mr. Bonner said he would telephone Premier Bennett, in Ottawa for a federal-provincial conference, to acquaint him with the super-port development.

The apparent warming of Ottawa-B.C. relations on the super-port issue almost didn't get started. Hellyer, stung by earlier statements from the attorney-general, released his copy of the letter before the original arrived in Victoria.

With a chuckle, Mr. Bonner said he was grateful to the B.C. press for acquainting him with the contents of the letter, and glad Hellyer had taken precautions against slow federal mail delivery.

In his letter dated Nov. 10, Hellyer asked for an end to "recriminations and accusations" over port development in Burrard Inlet and at Roberts Bank near Tsawwassen.

At a Vancouver news conference last month, Hellyer announced federal plans for a 30-year, $50,000,000 development at Roberts Bank. The time span indicated led Mr. Bonner to suggest Hellyer either had his tongue in cheek or holes in his head.

Hellyer wrote: "Despite statements attributed to you in the press, in which, if you are quoted correctly, you doubt my sincerity, I am continuing in my belief that you will recognize that recriminations and accusations will not lead to progress which we want."

Committee Proposed

The transport minister went on to propose that B.C. set up an interdepartmental committee which could hold detailed, technical discussions with representatives of the National Harbors Board.

Mr. Bonner told reporters he would be in Toronto for the Confederation of Tomorrow conference starting Nov. 26 and would consider meeting federal representatives for talks on the super-port issue, either before or afterward. He said he wasn't sure whether the discussions would be held with Hellyer or harbors board officials.

"I frankly think intergovernment machinery ought to be considered to handle major port development on the West Coast," particularly in regard to Vancouver," he said.

Experience abroad had shown "the eminent desirability" of seriously involving local interests in port development, Mr. Bonner said.

Any port development, particularly in the Lower Mainland, had to take into account traffic arteries, because these were likely to bear heavily of both provincial and municipal spending in the future, the attorney-general said.

Proper planning now could help ease this burden, he added.

Mr. Bonner also said: "If the NHB is ever to break away from its present highly-centralized administration, I think Roberts Bank is one such point of departure."

Cul-de-Sac Unwanted

He questioned Hellyer's plans for a $15,000,000 container ship-ping plant at North Vancouver. He said even if space was available there it wouldn't have easy access to main truck and rail transportation.

"I'm not arguing seriously," Mr. Bonner said, "but I'm just saying that if you are going to have that kind of development, it shouldn't be in a cul-de-sac... if containerization has potential, as many believe, then it ought not to be put in a corner."

Mr. Bonner said he preferred the Roberts Bank site for three basic functions: bulk handling of cargo like coal and potash, timber and plywood assembly, and containerization.

Hellyer said in his letter he was encouraged by earlier statements made by the attorney-general while studying port facilities in Europe, which indicated a co-operative and enthusiastic position on the part of B.C.

The federal government believes, Hellyer said, that the orderly development of West Coast port facilities is "vital not only to the economy of B.C., but also to the economy of all western Canada."

"I have stated publicly, and state again, that Vancouver, through existing port facilities and the development of Roberts Bank, will be Canada's gateway to the great Pacific trading area."

Sea Sewage Plan Ripped by Expert

By DON GAIN

The idea of Greater Victoria discharging raw sewage into surrounding waters is "shocking", a California public health expert said Wednesday night.

"If you have to put it in your bay," he said, "at least treat the damned stuff."

But this was not the only suggestion of Albert Marino of Auburn, Calif., chief of the division of environmental health in Placer County, when he spoke to a meeting sponsored by the Saanich Action Committee.

"You should at least look into the land disposal method before you proceed with your sewer project," he said.

Mr. Marino was one of four experts who spoke to about 70 persons in the auditorium of Mount View high school.

Chairman Roy Ralls told the meeting that the municipalities of Greater Victoria have accepted a plan to go ahead with the regional district's vast $23,500,000 trunk sewer project with the discharge of raw sewage into surrounding waters.

"We do not think it can be done without causing health hazards," he said. "We think every aspect should be considered before going ahead with it. We are not arguing against the system except in regard to pollution and health hazards."

Engineer John Priestman, who worked on the original sewerage study, told the gathering that only one outfall in use was designed to reasonably modern standards.

"Most of the discharge is virtually onto the beaches or into very shallow water," he said. "The regional board should be congratulated for getting on with the project."

Biologist Dr. Alan Austin of the University of Victoria outlined some methods of disposal which had been used for centuries. He told of composting in Holland, Scotland and the Island of Jersey. He said London County Council was reverting to disposal on agricultural land instead of in the North Sea.

He said natural treatment is not free.

"There is a bill coming up," he said. "Nature is not adapted to do the job we want done in the time we want it done."

It is a good idea to return to water only water and to return to the land only what comes from the land, he said.

Dr. Ken Thornton, director of laboratories at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said he was at the meeting in several roles. He said he was there as a representative of the B.C. Medical Association's environmental health committee but also as a citizen and a father.

"And I hope I can do some good for my children's children and their grandchildren," he said.

"Sewage is a potent method of spreading disease," he said. He mentioned diarrhea,

"the Philadelphia footrot," cholera, types of salmonella, parasites and virus diseases such as poliomyelitis and infectious hepatitis. He said they were spread by three agencies, fingers, food and flies, and very often from raw sewage.

"I don't go along with this diluting effluent a little bit," he said. "We've got to dilute it a hell of a lot."

He told the group to consider the cost of disease when considering the cost of a sewerage system.

In a case of hepatitis, three weeks in hospital at $40 a day plus $20 a day for other costs, and six weeks' loss of work for the patient, gave a good idea of the cost to the community, he said.

Metchozin Ratepayers

Meeting Weighs Ban on Shooting

Metchozin ratepayers will meet tonight to resolve an issue over a recently-imposed shooting ban in the area.

The meeting, at 7:30 p.m. in the Metchozin Community Hall, was called two weeks ago after dispute arose over the ban on shooting in the Witty Lagoon area, and from Latoria to Wootton Road.

Woman Struck At Intersection

Mrs. Alice Bennett, 72, of 945 Fairfield, was in fair to poor condition in St. Joseph's Hospital with a broken arm and facial lacerations after being hit by a car Wednesday while crossing at Vancouver and Southgate. Victoria police said the car was driven by a juvenile.

The ban was imposed after residents had complained of stray bullet incidents in the area.

A representative of the recreation department is expected to attend tonight's meeting, according to ratepayer Mrs. Lois Karlsson, 4283 Metchozin Road.

Paul Arsens, Victoria restaurateur who bought the old YMCA building at Blanshard and View at a sheriff's auction Wednesday, said he would tear down the four-story structure.

There were 23 bids before the red-brick landmark was knocked down by Sheriff Eric Wilkinson for $52,500.

Mr. Arsens said that aside from demolition he had no immediate plans for the site. He had considered adding to his chain of restaurants, he said, but nothing was certain at the moment.

POSSIBLE LOT

The new owner said it was also possible that the site would be converted into a downtown parking lot.

"A lot depends on the development of Blanshard Street in that area," Mr. Arsens said.

Bidding against Mr. Arsens for most of the 40 minutes the sale was in progress at the Law Courts, was Tage E. Larsen, of Town and Country Realty, who originally bought the property from the YMCA.

COURT ORDER

The sale was brought about by the fact that Commonwealth Trust Co., which holds a $60,000 mortgage against the building, obtained a court order.

Sheriff Wilkinson pointed out that the sale of the property to the highest bidder was subject to confirmation by the courts which ordered the sale.

First bid was for $25,000, after which it rapidly climbed, by sums of $1,000 and $500, to $40,000. After a lull it advanced to $50,000.

THREE CALLS

At this point the sheriff gave the usual three calls before completion of a sale. At the third call the bidding began again and the contest between

Mr. Arsens and Mr. Larsen ended when the latter declined at $52,500.

Fog Hits

Fog shrouded most of Greater Victoria and outlying districts early this morning slowing traffic to a crawl. There was no indication of any clearing at press time.

Chateau Testimony

$56,000 Lost In Swap Deal

By BRIAN DOHERTY

A Seattle real estate operator told an extradition hearing in central magistrate's court Wednesday that property dealings with Charles Warren Beeler cost him about $56,000.

John E. Brown was testifying in the proceedings taken in an attempt to extradite Beeler from San Francisco to face nine counts of fraud. The Crown, represented by Lloyd McKenzie and Kenneth Murphy, alleges the frauds total $93,820.

Mr. Brown said he swapped property he and his wife owned in Riverside, Calif., for Beeler's property near Esquimalt Lagoon, early in 1962.

The lagoon property had a mortgage of $77,500.

A few months later the property was rebought by BHP Investment Company (the parent company of Chateau Victoria) and Mr. Brown said he accepted a note for $97,400 from the company, with Beeler as guarantor.

In April, 1963, Beeler and Frederick Pollard, identified during the hearing as a shareholder and a director of BHP Investment, discussed the Chateau Victoria plan with Mr. Brown.

'Used Funds Himself'

Beeler also removed $3,200 from the account in May, 1963, contrary to the existing agreement. Two months later, Mr. Pollard resigned as an officer of the company because "I had found Beeler had used funds for himself when they should have been paid into the company."

The Yorkshire Trust was trustee for the chateau company until Montreal Trust assumed this in September, 1962.

Mr. Pollard said he bought four shares for $20,000 at that time because there were outstanding bills and because he could not see why he should get his money refunded and others should not.

"The adventure cost me $20,000 and a lot of trouble and time and expense."

Cyril Chapman said he resigned in 1963 as manager of the Empress Hotel to manage the chateau project. He said he was to be paid $700 a month until the operation began, when he would receive $1,135 a month.

The prices of the apartments at the proposed retirement home were from $9,600 to $24,000, Mr. Chapman said.

Mr. Chapman said he had lost confidence in the project by July, 1963.

"I had doubts about the integrity of Mr. Beeler," Mr. Chapman said.

Mr. Chapman said he bought one share in the company for $5,000 as a condition of employment. Of this, $10 was the cost of a share and $4,990 was a loan to the company.

Later Beeler told him that the share cost $700 and the loan was $4,300. Mr. Chapman resigned in November, 1963, and never received any money back.

Paid for Clearing

Lawrence Arnold said he did clearing work for Beeler on the lagoon property — site of the proposed chateau — and was paid in full. Mr. Arnold bought one share for $5,000 and later bought a second for $1,000 when Beeler told him he was stuck for cash.

Allan Smith, a Vancouver engineer and designer, said he prepared preliminary designs for Chateau Victoria, for which he was not paid.

He bought 10 shares for $10,000, with $9,900 of this a loan to the company, Mr. Smith said. Later he found that the money was not entered as a loan in the company's accounts, but rather as being the total price for the shares. He received nothing back.

Donald Ross, a Vancouver mortgage manager, said Beeler presented a note from Montreal Collins (a witness Tuesday) for $20,000 and used $5,000 as part of the purchase of a property in Vancouver.

Mr. Collins said Tuesday he signed the note for shares in Chateau Victoria.

Frank Kearney, a Vancouver real estate operator, said the lagoon property was foreclosed on in 1964 when payments were not made on the mortgage, and the land was subsequently sold for $100,000.

He said he paid $3,500 for two shares.

The hearing, before Magistrate William Oetler, is expected to end today. A transcript of the proceedings will be sent to a judge in California. Beeler will have the opportunity to dispute any of the evidence and the judge will then decide if the evidence warrants extradition.

If it does, Beeler will be extradited to Victoria.

Bystanders approach burning garage

Mechanic in Hospital After Garage Erupts

Two men were injured in a $12,000 flash fire that swept through a Colwood service station Wednesday.

Reported in poor condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with severe burns to his face, hands, arms and chest is Eric Kitchen, 21, of 100 Cunard Street.

Treated for minor burns and later released from hospital was David John, 26, of 340 Michigan.

Both men were employed as mechanics at Bob's Shell Service, 1880 Island Highway, where the fire broke out at 2:45 p.m.

NEAR CAR

Cause of the blaze has not been determined, but station owner Bob Schwabe said it apparently originated near a car in the rear of the garage.

Firemen found a welding torch still burning after the fire was put out.

Mr. Schwabe said the injured men were the only persons in the garage at the time of the incident.

QUICK TRIP

Witnesses said the men staggered from the building and were almost immediately picked up by the Colwood ambulance and rushed to hospital.

Jack Louis, of a neighboring service station, said he and fellow workers had "just sat down for coffee and two seconds later great clouds of smoke was blowing out of the building. I didn't hear any explosion."

Another witness said he heard "a thud" as heat blew glass windows out of the garage.

LIKE EXPLOSION

But some others said they thought they heard something like an explosion before they saw the smoke.

Fire Chief Richard Proudfoot said damage was confined to the car, owned by Earl Hunt of Colwood, a dozen tires, tools and some of the structure.

The entire inside of the service station was blackened by smoke and flame. Mr. Schwabe said it is covered by insurance.

As Pilots Balk

Onus on Captains

Ship traffic through the ports of Vancouver, Victoria and other coastal points will remain steady despite a work stoppage by British Columbia ship's pilots, according to shipping authorities.

Seventy-four pilots, members of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, refused Wednesday morning to guide ships in and out of harbors. They said they were awaiting the outcome of grievance discussions between the union and the federal government in Ottawa.

"The stoppage wouldn't affect the number of ships moving here for at least two or three days," said Victoria pilot Capt. John Howe.

"And then it would be only very slightly," Capt. Howe said.

BY THEMSELVES

National Harbours Board officials in Vancouver granted the captains of ships entering or leaving coastal ports permission to pilot their vessels themselves, pending the outcome of the dispute.

Union officials in Vancouver indicated that the pilots planned to return to work this morning. They declined to elaborate on issues involved in the grievance discussions in Ottawa.

There are 29 pilots based in Victoria, six in Nanaimo and 39 in Vancouver.

Freighters Hardanger and Ola left Victoria's Ogden Point for sea Wednesday night.

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

November 16, 1867

Poor old John S. Potter, the former indefatigable manager of the Victoria Theatre, is dead — "gone to that bourne from whence no traveller returns." He burst a blood vessel at Julesburg, Colorado, a few months ago, and died almost immediately. With all John's faults in his later days he was once a manager of position and wealth.

Peter Cargovitch appeared before Mr. Pemberton yesterday to answer a charge of having thrown a cabbage upon the theatre stage on the night of the debut of Misses Van Allman and Yeomans. Mr. Bishop appeared for the defence. Mr. Marsh, the manager and lessee of the theatre, was placed in the box as prosecuting witness and the accused confessed the act. The magistrate characterized the offence as most unmanly and discreditable, and ordered Cargovitch to enter into bonds to keep the peace for three months.

Residential Appeal Passes Objective

Donations to the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal reached $537,729 Wednesday, 89.7 per cent of the target. The residential campaign has passed its objective of $106,200 and now stands at $108,917, or 102 per cent.

There are still some householders who have not been called on for one reason or another. Contributions may be mailed or taken to the Community Chest, 1951 Cook Street. A phone call to 385-6708 or 384-0801 will bring a collector.

Hornets Suspended For Conduct of Fans

Colonist Cup champions Mount View Hornets have been temporarily suspended from further competition in the high school soccer playoffs by the Greater Victoria Senior Secondary School Athletic Association.

The school has until 1 p.m. today to discipline students involved in the incident during Tuesday's 3-2 victory over Victoria Tynes at Topaz Park in which a group of spectators rushed onto the field after regulation time, jostling and verbally abusing the game officials.

ISLAND FINAL

Hornets are scheduled to meet Port Alberni in the Vancouver Island final on Friday at Macdonald Park starting at 2:30 p.m.

Mount View coach Brian Cornell is certain that most of the spectators involved were not students from his school.

Cornell told the Colonist, "There were undoubtedly a few of our students involved and while I cannot excuse their conduct, I feel that the big majority of our students were not involved and that none of our players took any part in it."

Claremont Gains Split

Visiting Claremont High School gained a split in two exhibition rugby matches Tuesday at Brentwood College.

Brentwood's first XV swamped Claremont, 27-3, as Sasha Angus scored three tries for the winners. Bill Lewis added two tries, Dal Williams kicked two converts, Alan McCrindle scored a try and convert while Rob Archer added a try for Brentwood. John Kyle averted a shut-out for Claremont by kicking a penalty goal.

Claremont won the second XV's game, 6-3, on the strength of two penalty goals.

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

A BIG POST: There can be no other way to start the first Behind the Glass of the season than by offering congratulations to Keith and Ray Dagg, Jack Trueman and Barry Harvey for their tremendous performance in winning the first annual Evergreen Tournament of Champions at the Vancouver Curling Club last month.

Although the three Victoria Curling Club members and Ray Dagg, who since returned to Vancouver, had combined to win one of the two Vancouver Island berths in the Pacific Coast playdowns last season, they were understandably not given too much chance in the invitational bonspiel which was sort of the official opening of the renovated Vancouver club.

And little wonder. The field of 32 rinks included the likes of Prairie stars Hee Gervais, Ron Northcott and Hersh Lerner, American-champion Bruce Roberts and Lyall Dagg, Glen Harper, Buzz McGibney and most of the other "name" skips in British Columbia.

In this kind of company the Victoria rink won eight of nine games, ending with a seven-game win streak which included last-day victories over Gervais and Northcott. The winners admit they got some breaks along the way but this is being modest. No rink could win against the calibre of competition in this event without earning victory with great shot-making. Not since Glen Harper and his Duncan rink finished the 1963 Canadian championships with a string of seven straight victories which included vice-over Alberta's Jim Shields, who had Northcott as his vice-skip, and Saskatchewan's Ernie Richardson the same day, have Vancouver Island curlers scored such a prestige victory.

AN ABOUT FACE: More surprising than the victory of the Victoria rink in the Evergreen Tournament of Champions was the promotion of the event by the Vancouver Curling Club.

Ever since the Pacific Coast Curling Association was formed when Coast curlers decided to break away from the B.C. Curling Association, prominent Vancouver Club curlers have led the fight against big bonspiel prizes and, particularly, against the offering of cash prizes in an effort to head off what they believed was a growing and dangerous commercialism in what is basically an amateur sport.

It was a bit surprising, then, to learn that the Vancouver Curling Club was sponsoring a bonspiel which offered $3,800 in cash prizes with $2,000 of that to go to the winning rink. And going all the way, they held a Calcutta pool in which the 32 rinks were auctioned off to the highest bidder. There is no argument here that invitational bonspiels offering big cash prizes and involving only the better curlers will really do curling any harm but there has certainly been a change of thinking among some Vancouver curling officials prominent in the affairs of the PCCA. There was nothing really amateur about the Evergreen Tournament of Champions.

Incidentally, in the bidding in the Calcutta pool, the winning Victoria rink almost added to its winnings by buying itself.

"I had made up my mind that I would bid as high as $50 on our chances," Keith Dagg said.

He did but someone topped his figure he had set for his rink and bought in at $55. The Calcutta total, with the Northcott rink bringing the highest bid of $300, was about $3,000 and the group which "purchased" the Victoria rink received approximately $1,300 for their $55 investment.

HERE WE GO AGAIN: Curling's sliding rule, which calls for a rock to be delivered without any part of the deliverer's body or equipment crossing the first hog line, again came up for discussion during the Tournament of Champions.

Umpires called Dave Gerlach, vice-skip of the Gervais rink, on an infraction of the sliding rule twice during Gervais' game with the Victoria rink. According to reports several other curlers also violated the rule but were not called on it and the old arguments started anew.

"It was bush," Keith Dagg is reported as saying after the incidents. "The call upset everybody on both rinks. Hee is one of the greatest guys in the game. What the officials forgot is that this is a gentleman's game and if something is wrong, the gentlemen who are playing should be allowed to resolve it."

One can appreciate that Keith might have been embarrassed by having an opponent lose two rocks on decisions by an umpire and that he may feel that the sliding rule is something that curling can do without but it is impossible to agree with his statement that curlers should be allowed to resolve rules infractions themselves.

Curling is no different than any other sport and curlers are no different than any other people. Curling has to have its laws and someone has to see to it that they are observed. It is impractical, if not downright impossible, to have all games umpired in club draws or in ordinary bonspiels but when play-off hopes, or $2,000, is at stake it is obvious that the only way that every curler can be given an equal chance as far as game rules are concerned is to have umpires.

The sliding rule is constantly broken, and the strange part of it is that it would continue to be broken by the same people regardless of where the sliding line is moved unless they are consistently called on the infraction.

Almost every curler who breaks the sliding rule with any consistency usually breaks it by less than six inches or violates it by not coming to a complete stop and raising up and stepping over the hog line. Move the hog line three feet closer to the back or move it three feet further away and the same thing would happen. They are just trying to get the ultimate advantage out of their slide and feel that they shouldn't be called if they break the rule just a little bit.

Breaking the sliding rule may seem to some like a lesser offence than kicking a rock onto the button, putting in back on line with a few nudges of the broom or edging an opponent's hiter out of the ring. But it really isn't. It is breaking the rules and the penalty should be exacted. If it isn't going to be exacted then curling should dispense with its rules altogether.

Gill of Mt. Douglas, chairman of the soccer committee, said that the association felt that the schools must be somehow held responsible for the actions of their students.

In an effort to stop any future incidents, the association has suspended the Hornets temporarily and made a strong decision to cover any reoccurrences.

Following meetings of the soccer committee and association Wednesday night, it was decided that for a case like this in the future where student fans conduct themselves in such manner, their school team will face indefinite suspension from further league and playoff games.

PART OF DIFFICULTY

Mount View's suspension came after the association was satisfied that some of the school's students were involved in the incident.

The association also realized that although there were many teachers present at the game, part of the difficulty arose as many of the spectators were not from either of the schools competing.

Should the association's demands not be met, another meeting regarding the area's representative in the final will be held today.

U.S. Takes Lead In Seniors Golf

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The United States took the lead and Canada a shared second place with Britain after the first round Wednesday of the first world seniors amateur team golf championship tournament.

The U.S. team grabbed the lead with a 10-over-par 225. Canada and Britain shared second with 234s.

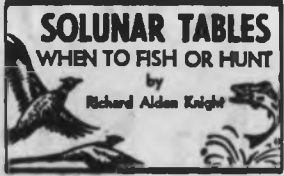

Australia was in fourth place with 240, with France following in fifth with 242, 16 strokes off the pace.

BEST SCORES

The top Canadian scorers, with 76s, were team captain Phil Farley, 55, of Toronto, and Jack Nash, 55, of London, Ont. Their 76s—David Goldman of the U.S. also had one—placed them in the low ten.

Dr. George Bigelow, 57, of Victoria, B.C., fired an 83. George C. Hevenor, 63, of Toronto to shot an 82.

Scores scored as gusty winds swept the 7,000-yard, par-72 No.

Walton Cashes In On Big Chance

Nimble Mike Walton took advantage of an opportunity to play full time Wednesday night and scored three goals as Toronto Maple Leafs took the Eastern Division lead in the National Hockey League by defeating Boston Bruins, 4-2, in Toronto.

Result broke a three-way tie for the lead with the idle Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers, who both have a chance to pull even tonight in games against Western Division clubs.

An injury to Dave Keon gave Walton his chance and the sophomore centreman beat wards made it easy for the Penguins to end Flyers' winning streak at four games. Lossers managed 27 shots at Hank Bassen but most were hurried or from well out.

Only 6,876 Pittsburgh fans showed up, but they made up a good crowd compared to the 3,256 customers in Oakland, where the Seals finally ended a month of frustration with a 4-1 win over Los Angeles Kings.

Former Western Hockey League stars were prominent for the Seals. Defenceman Larry Cahan tied the score after Terry Gray had put Kings ahead early in the first period. George Swarbrick followed with his eighth goal less than three minutes later and Charlie Burns got the 3-1 goal in the second period.

Mike Laughton, former Victoria centre, picked up two assists for the Seals and Aut Erickson former Victoria defenceman, got their last goal with a shot into an open net.

Gerry Cheevers twice in the first period and once in the second period as he collected his fifth, sixth and seventh goals of the season.

Bob Pulford produced Toronto's first goal in a game which started ruggedly and ended rather lamely. The Leafs, who were minus defenceman Al Stanley and Frank Mahovlich as well as Keon, built a 4-1 lead, got a bit of help in the second period when the Bruins twice hit a goalpost with Johnny Bower beaten, and then held on without too much trouble.

Larry Hillman filled in for Stanley and Jean Paul Parise turned in an effort which put him among the game's three stars as a replacement for Mahovlich. Parise was a robust checker throughout and drew an assist on Walton's second goal.

HAS FINALLY WON

While the Leafs were taking the lead in their division, Montreal Canadiens ended a winless streak at six games, Chicago Black Hawks continued to get closer to the leaders, Oakland Seals snapped a winless streak at 14 games and Pittsburgh Penguins grabbed second place in the Western Division.

Playing on the same line, Dick Duff and Henri Richard lifted Canadiens out of their scoring slump. Duff had a goal and three assists and Richard a goal and two assists as Canadiens trampled Minnesota North Stars, 5-1, before 12,898 fans in Minnesota.

Controlling play with their sharper passing, Canadiens limited North Stars to 15 shots on Lorne Worley and worked in close on Cosmo Maniago for most of their 28 shots.

GOAL-A-GAME

Bobby Hull kept up his goal-a-game pace for the Hawks, scoring his 15th in a 4-1 conquest of St. Louis Blues before 9,237 St. Louis fans.

Hawks had more trouble than the score indicated with the Blues. They nursed a 1-0 lead given by Stan Mikita's first period goal until midway through the third period, when Bobby Hull nestled in a 20-footer. Eric Nesterenko and Dennis Hull got insurance goals and Ron Stewart wrecked Denis DeJordy's stout hopes late in the game.

Just Gets to Green Faster

And Wins Most Money

Nicklaus Poor Putter, Spray Hitter

NEW YORK (AP)—So, like almost everybody else, you think it's the guy with the hot putter who wins the big golf tournaments.

Not true, says Charley the computer. Golf champions are made by hitting the green, not putting them. His prime proof is Jack Nicklaus.

Charley was sent out by IBM this summer to spy on the tournament golfers.

He found that:

—Nicklaus, rated the world's best golfer, is actually a poor putter, measured by his top contemporaries. But he hits the ball farther than any of them and he is best at hitting the greens.

—Arnold Palmer is the best driver. He is almost as long as Nicklaus off the tee and he's considerably more accurate. He has fewer three-putt greens than Bill Casper.

—Casper, known as the machine man, actually has a poor record for driving accuracy and hitting greens. He still takes fewer putts than any of the other leading tournament pros.

The computer checked the touring golfers in 11 major events.

were Nicklaus, Palmer, Casper, Doug Sanders, PGA champion Don January, Bobby Nichols and Dan Sikes.

A FAILURE—PUTTING

Of these seven, Nicklaus, the year's leading money winner with more than $188,000, turned out to be the worst putter. He averaged 123.8 putts a tournament and had an average of 2.6 three-putt greens for every 72 holes.

By comparison, Casper's total putts averaged 119.2 a tournament and only 1.5 three-putt greens. Sikes also showed up as an excellent putter—with a 119.4 average—and only one three-putt green per event. Sanders also had only one three-putt green.

The area that apparently separates the men from the boys is the kick off the tee and the shot to the green.

NICHOLS COMPARABLE

In the nine tournaments, Nicklaus averaged 276 yards with his drives compared with Palmer's 272. But the Golden Bear hit 76 per cent of the greens in regulation compared with Palmer's 74.

Only Nichols compared with Nicklaus and Palmer off the tee, averaging 273 yards, but only 57 per cent of his drives stayed in the fairway and he hit only 69 per cent of the greens in regulation.

Here's the breakdown by categories for the seven golfers: Drives in fairway: Palmer, 73 per cent; Sanders 70, Nicklaus 63; January, 62; Sikes, 62; Casper, 61; Nichols, 57.

Greens in regulation: Nicklaus 76 per cent; Palmer 74; January 69; Nichols 69; Sikes 67; Sanders 67; Casper 66.

Average drive: Nicklaus 276 yards; Nichols 273; Palmer 272; January 260; Casper 256; Sikes 256; Sanders 255.

Nicklaus 123.8; Nichols 122.2; January 122.1; Palmer 122; Sanders 120; Sikes 119.4; Casper 119.2.

Three putt greens, average tournament: Nicklaus 2.6; Nichols 2.2; January 2; Casper 1.5; Palmer 1.3; Sanders 1; Sikes 1.

Average score: Nicklaus 69.75; Nichols 70.0; Palmer 70.2; Sikes 70.7; January 70.8; Sanders 71; Casper 71.7.

One question the computer survey raised and failed to answer: Why does Nicklaus consistently beat Palmer? The statistics don't give the Ohio Better that kind of an edge.

Eddie Shore Tamer Now

VANCOUVER (CP)—A

growing Eddie Shore laced on his hockey skates Tuesday for the first time since the Springfield revolt, and skidded the ice at the forum.

"Take my picture and I'll bust that camera over your head," he shouted at a photographer.

He was, he said, just taking a turn on the ice to "teach the kids some tricks."

"I've tamed down a lot," he grinned later. "When you suffer eight heart attacks in five years you have to take it a little easier."

"Today is the first time in 12 months I've had my skates laced up."

VISITING COLEY HALL

What was the 65-year-old former owner of Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League doing on Forum ice—red baseball cap, 1919 skates and all?

"Visiting my old buddy Coley Hall (former owner and now adviser to Vancouver Canucks of the Western League)."

"I was told he's been having trouble with his defence and figured I might be able to help."

"I'm out of hockey now. And I should add that it doesn't bother me half as much as people like to think it does."

The former Boston all-star defenceman in the National Hockey League sold the team he owned in Springfield this year to the new Los Angeles Kings of the NHL.

The sale came after a player revolt late last year when the players refused to take to the ice for several games.

"I didn't want the players and they probably didn't want me," said Shore about the sale of the players. "So everybody wound up happy."

"WE HAD FUN"

But Shore said he had fond memories of his years in hockey.

"Ah, we had some fun. Remember though, half those years you hear about me aren't true at all."

"The other half? Well, let's just say we had some fun."

Elijah Pitts Lost to Club

NEW YORK (AP)—Green

Bay halfback Elijah Pitts has been put on the reserve list and is lost to the Packers for the season, the National Football League office confirmed Wednesday.

Pitts suffered a torn achilles tendon against Baltimore Colts Nov. 5.

NFL publicity director Don Weiss said that placing Pitts on the reserve list, instead of the more familiar 30-day injured waiver list, required no waivers from the other clubs, but would make him subject to non-re-callable waivers.

"That means that if someone claimed him, he's gone," Weiss said. "It's so risky that I can't ever remember a team trying it."

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — In a musty niche deep in the book stacks of Yale University's Sterling Memorial Library sat a pretty graduate student absorbed in her books.

Nearby, though hidden by the stacks, two or three other Yale graduate students were studying.

Footsteps. She ignored them. But it seemed to her that someone was standing above her for a long time.

"All of a sudden I felt somebody kissing my feet," she told Yale authorities and the Yale Daily News.

"Here was this guy on his hands and knees kissing me. 'I screamed but everybody ignored me.'"

The man fled.

"I've had some pretty strange passes made at me," she told the News, "but never anything like this."

Such incidents have taken place during afternoon or evening on at least four occasions reported to Yale authorities.

Three of the foot-kissed girls have been graduate students. The fourth was a professor's wife.

Campus police are looking for a white male, 160-170 pounds, with blonde hair and a fair complexion, who is "probably an emotionally disturbed person," said Yale Security Director John Powell.

But The News implied in its story Tuesday that the situation may be less than disastrous.

"He knows how to pick them," concluded the student newspaper after an observer had looked at the girls.

For Funds Neat Feet Feat

Foot Power has been adopted as the cry for Greater Victoria's 26-mile march for money to be staged Nov. 25.

University of Victoria's students organizing the Project 100 drive conferred Tuesday with representatives of service clubs, churches, municipalities and the police to form an adult advisory committee.

Student spokesman David De Rosenroll said the stunt is aimed at raising money for mobile classrooms to be sent to underdeveloped Commonwealth countries.

Sponsors are being asked to pay walkers so much per mile covered on the big walk. The usual figure in other centres has been $1 per mile.

The walk will begin at the Legislative Buildings and end there after touching every municipal hall in the area.

Congress Steps Up Air Pollution Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Congress approved and sent to the White House Tuesday a compromise bill to step up the fight against air pollution. The bill calls for a three-year program of $428,300,000.

Saanich Cuts Centre Cost

Members of Saanich council's special projects committee got their pencils out Wednesday to pare down the cost of the proposed senior citizens' centre on Hampton Road.

Architect John Di Castri presented a supplementary report for a one-storey building at a cost of $127,205. Proposed budget for the centre is $127,000.

The architect's report planned for two phases of construction to provide four activity rooms, lounge, kitchen and other accommodation. An auditorium was included for future construction.

The committee voted to recommend to council that the first two phases be proceeded with, but that one activity room be left unfinished and folding doors eliminated. The committee also recommended landscaping and paving be eliminated with the suggestion to council that these, and the activity room if possible, be completed out of general revenue. This brought the cost down to $117,705.

One Vote for Tovar Rest for Yastrzemski

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Just about a year ago Carl Yastrzemski walked into a gymnasium and began working out two hours a day six days a week. It paid off.

"I built up power and endurance," the 28-year-old Boston Red Sox outfielder said, "and that did it."

coupled with endurance—his ability to finish strong at the end of the season—were a key factor in his being voted the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1967.

Yastrzemski, the league's Triple Crown winner this year, picked up 19 of the first-place votes cast by 20 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. The 20th vote went to Minnesota's Cesar Tovar, who played second and third bases and centre field.

"I was disappointed the vote wasn't unanimous," Yastrzemski said on the eve of Wednesday's announcement that he had been named MVP.

A week ago the writers voted unanimously for Orlando Cepeda of the St. Louis Cardinals for the same honor in the National League.

Twins' slugger Harmon Killebrew finished second to Yastrzemski with 161 points. Catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit, with 137, was third followed by pitcher Joe Horan of Chicago, 91, outfielder Al Kaline of Detroit, 88, and pitcher Jim Lonborg of Boston, 82. Tovar, who batted .267, last season, finished in a seventh-place tie with shortstop Jim Fregosi of California. Each had 70 points.

The voting by two baseball writers from each city was on a basis of 14 points for a first-place vote, nine for second, eight for third down to one for each 10th place vote.

Yastrzemski, who led the Red Sox to their first pennant since 1918, became the first Boston player to take the MVP award since Jackie Jensen in 1955.

Attendance Soared In Pennant Struggle

BOSTON (AP)—American League president Joe Cronin has announced the hot pennant race this year resulted in an all-time attendance high of 11,335,394, shattering the 1948 record of 11,150,099.

The champion Boston Red Sox led with a club record 1,727,832 fans. Minnesota Twins also set a club record of 1,483,547.

Detroit attracted 1,445,614; California, 1,317,713, and New York, 1,259,514. Chicago White Sox drew 985,634.

Washington's surprising Senators had their greatest attendance since expansion in 1961, drawing 770,868.

Canadians-Gaels In Soccer Merger

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of the Vancouver Royal Canadians said this week the team has merged with the San Francisco Golden Gate Gaels.

Both clubs are members of the United Soccer Association. Vancouver president Ted Eakins said the merged team will play as the Vancouver Royals.

He made the announcement following a report that San Francisco would fold its franchise in the USA and attempt to buy stock in the Vancouver franchise.

Eakins said coach Bobby Robson of Vancouver was to leave Tuesday for Madrid, where the Golden Gate Gaels have been training since Aug. 1.

Robson and coach Ferenc Puskas of the Gaels will soon be joined by seven players under contract to the Royal Canadians.

The Royal Canadians president said the merged team will play European teams on a tour that will begin in Belgium. He said the club may also take a swing through Central America and Mexico prior to the opening of the USA season in April.

Eakins said the merger will stand regardless of any merger plans there might be between the USA and the rival national professional soccer association.

Eakins will continue as president of the new team, and he said George Feherty, owner of the Gaels, will take over as chairman.

Victoria Library Unique

Section for Teens Only

By BILL STAVDAL
 An experiment unique in B.C. has solved a major problem for the Victoria Public Library.
 The problem: how to attract teenagers who have outgrown the children's section of the library, yet aren't interested in the adult department.
 The solution: give them what they want, attractively presented in their own corner of the library.
 The library began the experiment at the end of March, 1966. In the next nine months, to the end of 1966, circulation totalled 20,000 books.

Circulation Up
 In the following nine months, ending with September of this year, circulation had jumped to 28,000. That's an increase of 40 per cent.
 Other B.C. libraries have children's sections, says Mrs. Margaret Toakley, librarian in charge of the teen collection. And others also have young adult sections.
 Victoria, so far as she knows, is the only place in B.C. which caters especially to teenagers.

 The teen section has 4,500 books, only 2,000 of which are on the shelves at any one time. The rest are out being read.
 Another 700 or so are on order.
 Mrs. Toakley this week was busy showing off an attractive display of books as part of Young Canada Book Week.
Great Interest
 "There's a great interest in the workings of the mind, among both boys and girls," she reported. "LSD, hypnosis and psychology."
 "Their interests are so broad. They are like sponges. You put a book on the shelves and whoosh! — it's gone."
 "I think they are a lot more wide awake and interested in life than many of their parents."
 Boys read a lot of science fiction nowadays. The also demand books on science, sports and cars and motorcycles.

Girls read career stories, romances, books on personal development and grooming, and animals.
 Current affairs is big — topics like race relations and Vietnam. About half the circulation is school-oriented, says Mrs. Toakley.
Eye-Catchers
 Attractive presentation is important in getting the books into the hands of teen readers. Most books in the section have eye-catching dust-jackets.
 A random glance at titles produced Young People and Driving; Bride at 18; A Teen-Ager's First Car; One of Our H-Bombs is Missing; True Stories of Courage and Survival; Ballads, Blues and the Big Beat; A New You — the Art of Good Grooming for Girls; and Pop Art.
 The teen section is open from noon to 6 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday; from noon to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday; and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Rocket Shot Wowed The General

By DON GAIN

A man who was at Cape Kennedy last week to see the Apollo/Saturn V shot spoke to the Air Force Officers' Association of Vancouver Island in the Bay Street Armory Wednesday night.

Spectacular, magnificent, awe-inspiring "and a tremendous success" is the way Lt.-Gen. Laurence Craigie described the experience.
 The general is not short on experience. He was a member of the true team at Panmunjom in the Korean war, and recently returned from a two-week tour of bases in Vietnam and Thailand. He has held an impressive list of appointments since graduation from West Point in 1923, and civilian jobs since retirement in 1955.
 The general is now director of requirements for the U.S. Air Force on the corporate staff of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation in Burbank, Calif.
 He has more than 9,000 hours of pilot time and in 1942 was the first military pilot in the U.S. to pilot a jet.
 He told his audience of the fantastic size of the rocket he saw in Florida.

Even Building Big

Before the shot, he took an elevator in the Vehicle Assembly Building, largest building in the world and got off at the 35th floor. There are 41.
 From a distance of 3 1/2 miles, he later saw the 6,000,000-pound rocket lifted by a cluster of five engines with combined thrust of 7,500,000 pounds.
 The general told of seeing the first successful shot at the cape, the Atlas ICBM on Dec. 17, 1958.
 He discussed new aircraft and aircraft of the future. He said the manned airplane, far from being obsolete, is only beginning its career.
 "We are now at the edge of a new round of aircraft that promise to open up a new air age," he said, "a revolution that occurred with the introduction of the jet engine."
 With the use of film he illustrated his talk and showed aircraft of larger size, with more speed and with more flexibility and versatility, such as new vertical takeoff and landing concepts now under experimentation.
 On the Vietnam war, the general said in an interview before his speech that he thought "a very loud minority was getting a lot of publicity."
 "I really think most Americans don't quarrel with the positions taken by three presidents, that we should defend South Vietnam against the spread of Communism. If we don't do it there, we'll have to do it somewhere else at a greater cost."

Lecture, Art For Naturalists
 Dr. Joyce Clearhue will give an illustrated talk Fungi Affecting Humans at 8 p.m. today at the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association meeting in the Douglas Building cafeteria. Also at the meeting Miss Emily Sartain will show her collection of more than 60 water-color paintings of fungus subjects.

$2,000,500 Waterworks PhaseTunnel Ready for Concrete

By A. H. MURPHY

A $2,000,500 concreting job, second phase of Greater Victoria Water District's giant tunnel project, will begin next week.

Heavy and cumbersome steel forms which fit the eight-foot inner dimension of the tunnel are 10 feet long, according to Chief Commissioner Ronald Upward. They now are being assembled.

Eight of them will be put in place at the Sooke Lake end of the five-mile bore. After the 80 feet is concreted, the 10-foot section at the portal will be leapfrogged to the head of the line and concreting will go on in 10-foot jumps.

Although the tunnel has been driven 14,500 feet into the rock at the Sooke Lake end, only 6,800 feet will be concreted, after which cementing will be started at the Japan Gulch end. Tunnelling is still in progress at the lower end of the tunnel and hard-rock miners still have to drive through 2,000 feet of rock before the bore is complete. This is being driven at the rate of about 25 feet a day.

SECOND PHASE
Stockpiled at the Sooke Lake end of the tunnel and ready for next week's start on the second phase of the job are 6,000 yards of gravel and thousands of dollars' worth of cement.

JAPAN GULCH
The tunnel project, will begin next week.

Although the tunnel has been driven 14,500 feet into the rock at the Sooke Lake end, only 6,800 feet will be concreted, after which cementing will be

Labor Council on Picket Line

Delegates to the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday voted to stage a solidarity picket this morning in support of 20 striking shingle weavers at McCarter Shingle and Shake Ltd. on Songhees.

The council took the action on the basis of a request for support from Local 2802 of the Shingle Weavers Union.

In the request, the union said the plant is being kept running by "two American scabs working behind the picket line."

The 20 weavers went on strike three weeks ago and negotiations have bogged down in talks between management and union, supervised by government conciliator Jack Sherlock. In other business, the council:

• Heard a report from

Victoria community planning director Geoffrey Greenhalgh on plans for future development, with emphasis on the Wharf Street-Johnson Street bridge area. The developer also outlined the progress in the Rose-Blanchard urban renewal development;

• Approved a report from employment chairman Ed Haw, which stated unemployment in Victoria is down this year compared to last year, 3,470 to 4,100;

• Was told by boiler-makers' business agent Neil Hindle that about 225 platers, burners, fitters, welders, and others are unemployed, with a layoff by Yarrows Wednesday night adding to the list. Mr. Hindle said, "It tooks very much like there will be a cutback at Dockyard, too."

In his report, Mr. Greenhalgh pointed out that the city, by taking advantage of federal and provincial grants, was developing the Rose-Blanchard area with a six-lane highway, new school and low-rental housing development for $356,000, out of the total net cost of $1,427,000.

How to relieve BACKACHE
Use Dodd's Kidney Pills for prompt relief from the systemic condition causing the backache. Soon you feel better—rest better. Depend on Dodd's.

"The road alone would have cost taxpayers about three-quarters of a million, without any aid," he said.

Also, the new housing units would number 180, instead of the 130 houses being demolished, he said.

In Low-Rental HousingRealtors Will Help But Listings Vital

The Victoria Real Estate Board took the first step Wednesday toward creating a clearing-house for low-rental housing listings.

Representatives of the board, headed by president Gordon Fawcett, met Mayor Hugh Stephen and city welfare head F. A. Davidson Wednesday afternoon in City Hall to iron out the details of the proposal. Jack Volo, chairman of the property management section of the board, and Keith MacFarlane, chairman of the civic affairs and public relations committee of the board, both attended with Mr. Fawcett.

MAIN PROBLEMS
"We are sure we can provide this facility," Mr. Fawcett said after the meeting. "It is just a matter of finalizing the mechanics later this week. Primarily, we have to decide on what exactly constitutes low-rental housing."

"Then we will have to appeal to landlords and get as many listings as possible. This will be the most vital ingredient—listings."

Lockout Threat Charged
Mentcutters have been subjected to "a barrage of propaganda by six B.C. chain store groups in an attempt to avert possible strike action. Victoria Labor Council delegates were told Wednesday.

George Johnston of Vancouver, representative of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, said also the companies had stated they would lock out employees if the butchers struck, a move which would be contrary to B.C. labor laws.

He said he was not pleased by the returning-officer's decision on a mail-in strike vote, since this might deter some members from balloting as they would be required to sign the outside envelope.

In Victoria, there are about 80 meatcutters, from Safeway, Shop-Easy and Super-Valu.

Will Provinces Co-operate?

Answer Today for Sharp

Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp will be told today if his anti-inflation crash-program lives or dies.

At a conference opening today, the 10 provinces will answer Sharp's urgent call for their co-operation in a joint federal-provincial assault on inflation.

Without this co-operation, he has indicated, it can't succeed. The federal government plans to raise taxes and slash its spending, to ease the pressure on the money market and interest rates. But the effort is not worthwhile if the provinces keep to an unchanged course and continue the pressure for their own expansion.

The consensus is there will be some kind of agreement in this area because the provinces are just as hard pressed as Ottawa. But as the conference opened, there was still no firm indication of the outcome of the battle over medicine.

Sharp and many of the provinces would like it postponed a second time and not begin July 1, 1968. But the decision now is political.

Sharp is unwilling to make the decision. He wants Prime Minister Pearson to do it.

The provinces are unwilling to do it. They argue medicare was Ottawa's idea and it is up to Ottawa to find a way out.

As both Ottawa and the provinces will have to raise taxes to pay for it, there may be the makings of a compromise.

Grits Ask B.C. Restraint

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C.'s six Liberal MLAs called Wednesday on the provincial government to match its recent request to labor and management for wage-price restraint with an end to all non-essential government spending. But the Liberals added B.C. must allow essential school and hospital building and meet the housing and unemployment crises.

Juvenile Act Redrafted

OTTAWA (CP)—A draft revision of the Juvenile Delinquents Act would make it impossible to send anyone under 17 to a prison where adult offenders are confined.

However, juvenile court judges still would be able to send those between 14 and 17 to an adult court for trial and sentence.

The draft, disclosed Wednesday says this "leaves hanging" the question of where serious offenders in this age group would be incarcerated.

The draft has been sent to at-least one general in each province as a "basis for discussion."

Its controversial and difficult sections will be dealt with at a federal-provincial conference, expected early in 1968.

The aim is to modernize and standardize juvenile law and procedures across the country.

A maximum juvenile age of the 17th birthday is proposed in the draft. The age now ranges from 16 to 18 from province to province.

The minimum age of criminal responsibility, now seven, would be raised to 10 or 12, another decision left for the conference. The draft does not provide for convictions, only "findings," in which the aim would be to help and guide rather than to punish.

It provides for protection against publicity—even at arrest—of under-17 offenders and would make it an offence for employers to ask questions about a juvenile record.

The juvenile court record would not be regarded as a criminal record. It could be "sealed" on application by those who don't get into trouble for five years after release.

Liberals Oppose Carter

CALGARY (CP)—The Herald says six western Liberal senators and MPs, including Veterans Affairs Minister Tellet, have asked Finance Minister Sharp to reject "without delay" the Carter report on taxation.

It says the group, upset over government failure to declare itself against Carter recommendations, met the finance minister in Ottawa last week.

The Herald says the group was led by H. A. Olson, MP for Medicine Hat, who left the Social Credit party in September and joined the Liberal caucus. It says others in the group are Alberta senators Harper Prowse and Earl Hastings and Saskatchewan senators W. A. Boucher and A. H. McDonald.

CLC Support Taxation Plan Approved

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress Wednesday threw its support behind recommendations of the Carter royal commission on taxation, and expressed concern about the "organized hostility" other groups have shown to the Carter report.

"We are disturbed by the extraordinary lengths to which the report's detractors have gone," the CLC said in a 9,500-word brief to Finance Minister Sharp.

Carter's ability-to-pay principle for taxation is wholly appropriate, the brief says. "NOT UNFAIR"

If the government follows the commission's approach in tax reform next year "it is inconceivable that the majority of taxpayers would be dissatisfied with the outcome."

"We believe that the Carter proposal to tax capital gains is neither unfair nor the harbinger of the death blow to initiative as some critics would have us believe," says the brief.

Without this measure, working people would continue to bear a disproportionately large share of the nation's tax burden.

Habitat Costly

OTTAWA (CP)—The final cost of Habitat, the showcase apartment building at Expo, was $22,600,350, government officials said Wednesday. They said the building's asset value is $7,447,740 and it earned $287,888 in income and rentals during its six months of operation.

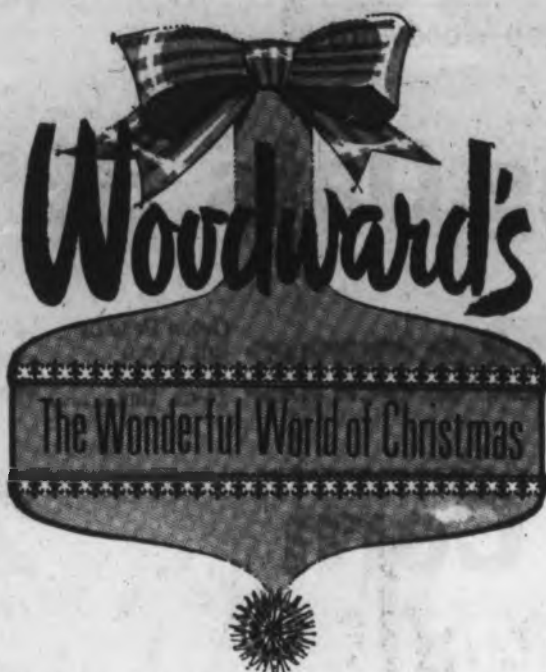

Maritime Cabinet Shuffled

FREDERICTON (CP)—Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick announced sweeping changes Tuesday in his re-elected Liberal government's cabinet and a shakeup in key departments.

The premier said H. H. Williamson will become labor minister, Norbert Theriault health and welfare minister and Dr. Joffre Daigle youth minister—all replacing cabinet men defeated in New Brunswick's election Oct. 23.

Williamson had been House speaker and Theriault municipal affairs minister. Daigle is a newcomer.

R. J. Higgins will head the new portfolio of economic growth and Raymond Doucet the new department of public buildings.

Recipe of the Week

Leg of Lamb with Honey-Soy Sauce

Marl heating oven to 450°F. Meanwhile trim as much as possible from:

6 to 7 lb. leg of lamb.

Place lamb on rack in shallow roasting pan. Sprinkle on and rub into lamb:

1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
With pastry brush, smear whole leg with:

1/4 cup honey

Then pour into bottom of pan:

About 1 quart water, or just enough to make water 1/4 inches deep in pan. Put lamb in oven and roast 1 1/2 hour. Then reduce oven temperature to 350°F and pour over lamb:

3 tablespoons soy sauce

Roast lamb 3 to 3 1/4 hours longer (this is about 25 minutes per pound). With lamb roasts, baste it about every half hour. At second basting, pour over lamb:

3 tablespoons soy sauce

When lamb is done, remove it to platter and pour juice into bowl; let lamb stand a minute; then spoon off as much of the fat that comes to the surface as possible. Serve the juice over lamb as is, or thicken some of it with cornstarch or flour. Save the clear leftover juice to serve next day on pork chops or rice. If desired, garnish with pineapple slices, clusters of green grapes, and cooked baby carrots.

Bazaar Saturday

The four little girls, Jacqueline Downing, left, Janice Langdale, Sharon Kendall and Lorna Taylor think it is fun to be pictured with some of the novelties that their mothers will be selling at St. Aidan's annual Fall bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 18. Mrs. E. A. Hendy will open the affair in the church hall at 11 a.m. Mrs. Rupert Champion, general convener, is assisted by Mrs. Ken Rix.—(Wm. E. John)

Couple Married At Quamichan

St. Peter's Anglican Church, Quamichan was the scene of a lovely Autumn wedding when Cathryn Elizabeth, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Chadwick of Duncan, became the bride of Lawrence Alexander Crowcroft, only son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Crowcroft, Shawnigan Lake, V.I.

White and gold chrysanthemums decorated the altar for the candlelit double-ring ceremony which was conducted by Rev. Neil Robinson, assisted by the Rev. Father R. F. Stephenson, Shawnigan Lake. Lily-of-the-valley, roses and tulips formed the pew markers.

Entering the church on the arm of her father the fair-haired bride was a radiant picture in a floor-length traditional gown of white peau d'elegance which was designed and made by the groom's mother. It featured silk flowers around the neckline and train which swept back from the waist. The tiered veil of illusion net misted from a lily-of-the-valley headdress. A cascading bouquet of white orchids and yellow roses was carried by the bride.

Mrs. Stanley Homer, Calgary, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and the Misses Heather MacMillan, Victoria, and Dayle Olsen were bridesmaids. Little Miss Denise Hopson, niece of the groom was flower girl.

The attendants were dressed in full length gowns of yellow, gold and soft peach with matching headresses and carried bouquets of complementary colored chrysanthemums in tone and yellow roses. The daisy flower girl wore a gown of yellow peau d'elegance with a white lace yoke and she carried a basket of flowers.

Mr. Terry Valley was best man and ushering guests were Mr. Roger Larmand and Mr. Robert Peck.

Mr. C. E. Harkins, Victoria, proposed the toast to his niece at the reception at the Moose Home, Lakes Road, and Mr. R. T. Harkins, Prince George, was master of ceremonies for the evening. The wedding cake was four-tiered and artistically decorated by Mrs. Jack Thomas, Burnaby, aunt of the groom.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to New York, Nassau, the Bahamas and Miami Beach, Fla., the new Mrs. Crowcroft was lovely in a heather blue ensemble with dark brown accessories. Her corsage was of yellow rose buds. Following the honeymoon the young couple will reside at Shawnigan Lake.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gilbert of Burnbank House, Oban, Argyll, Scotland, are guests this week of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Francis, 2030 Lansdowne Road.

Surprise Shower

Miss Roberta Godtel, whose marriage to Mr. William Gault takes place Dec. 16, was honor guest at a surprise miscellaneous shower, given by Mrs. E. Hemsworth and Mrs. T. Wilson in the latter's home on West Saanich Road. A corsage of pink carnations was presented to the bride-to-be, while her mother, Mrs. R. Godtel, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. C. Gault, each received feathered chrysanthemums. Gifts were held in a wishing well.

Guests included Mrs. E. Hansen, Mrs. D. Neale, Mrs. J. Sheppard, Mrs. K. Tomlinson, Mrs. J. Graham, Mrs. G. Aaronson, Mrs. A. Miller, and the Misses Laurie Bradley, Lynn Buhr, Joan Oliver, Karen Levy, Patricia Ready, Wendy Aaronson, Janet and Karen Wilson.

Sarmi Has

Yes and No Hemlines

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP) — In the spring, traditionally the seduction season, Fernando Sarmi seems to be expecting a national love-in, at least among the rich.

So it seemed Tuesday when he introduced his latest status-symbol collection to buyers who cater to a strictly haute mode clientele.

Italian-born Sarmi found his romantic inspiration in the longer skirts, frills and big hats of San Francisco's flower people who supposedly do not worry about fashion images or Dunn and Bradstreet ratings.

His flower people were fastidious beauties in whirly-skirt costumes, neatly belted, with straw bonnets having wide brims turned back off the face. Sometimes flowers were held green irises on brown crepes shaped into gowns with puffy ostrich feather arms or bouncy ostrich-feather skirts.

Other times they were clusters of jewels or sequins at the yokes of floaty pastel chiffon gowns. Or flower petals were formed from cellulose ribbon, crackling and glittering on a variety of figure-revealing party costumes.

But Sarmi also likes loud stripes or colored panels and blocks and inserts that contrast.

Necklines plunged low in front, or shoulders went uncovered, sometimes the spinal column exposed.

Indicative of the contrariness of females, however, some were Sarmi's "yes" and "no" hemlines on ball gowns. Some climbed above the knee in front and swept to the floor in back; others zigged on one side and zagged on the other.

Red Spartans

Kissin' cousins to the famous B.C. McIntosh Reds.

Perhaps only once in a lifetime a NEW apple appears that captures the fancy of old and young alike!

The B.C. Red Spartan has been developed in British Columbia's sunny Okanagan Valley, by crossing the famous McIntosh and Newtown apples... and Nature has blessed it with the best qualities of both.

The flavor of the Spartan is distinctive and sweet, and yet reminiscent of the McIntosh... the flesh is an appetizing clear white... and the core is unusually small. The Spartan is a superb all-purpose apple, rich and juicy for fresh eating... tempting and flavorful in your favorite desserts.

For a new apple treat —
'discover' B.C. Spartans.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is 38 and looking forward to at least another 62 years but the last two months have been hell and I'd like to tell you about it.

The night Jack graduated from high school a fortune teller told him he would die before his 38th birthday. Jack didn't think anything of it and neither did I. But the thought was always in the back of our minds and every once in a while he'll say, "Isn't it ridiculous?"

On Jack's 37th birthday a friend offered this toast at a party: "Make the most of every day, Jack, because 38 is mighty old — and the end is in sight." It was meant as a joke (people had brought crutches and false teeth as gag gifts), but that toast made a wreck of us both.

Two months ago we were driving home from a party. It was foggy and the hour was late. Suddenly Jack's brakes gave out and we narrowly missed hitting an oncoming car. A moment before he swerved he shouted, "My God, the fortune teller was right!"

The next eight weeks were sheer torture. Jack refused to go anywhere but to work and to church. One night he had a mild case of indigestion and he was sure it was a heart attack. Another night his neck ached and he knew he had polio. The following day he was certain an ingrown hair on his face was "skin cancer." Jack went to the doctor's office five times in seven weeks. I lost six pounds, he lost eight.

I write this letter, Ann Landers, on the day following Jack's 38th birthday. You'll never know how thankful we are to be leading normal lives again. But we'll never forget the agonies we suffered — and it was all so unnecessary.

The reason for this letter is to plead with all fortune tellers not to predict death. In the first place, no one knows how many years a person will live — he can only GUESS, but the fear of dying can hasten death through anxiety or accident.—FREE AT LAST

Dear Free: Your letter makes a great deal of sense and now I am bracing myself for the inevitable avalanche of letters from readers eager to recount personal experiences of death predictions which came true. To all of you I say in advance, it was a coincidence that your Uncle Heathcliff died on the day Cousin Anastasia predicted, so save your stamps.

Dear Ann Landers: I am only 13 and I have a lot to learn but I think I have something worthwhile to pass on to some of your readers who are much older than I.

I liked the letter from the woman whose husband gave her "the best birthday gift in the world." He quit smoking. I've heard many people say they would give anything if they could quit but they are hooked. Well, here is a poem that may be corny but all smokers ought to cut it out and carry it in the same pocket in which they used to carry their cigarettes.

Did is a word of achievement. Won't is a word of retreat. Might is a word of bereavement.

Can't is a word of defeat. Ought is a word of duty. Try is a word of each hour. Will is a word of beauty. Can is a word of power.—ABC Dear ABC: Corny or not, it's good. So I'll hush it and print it.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Glendinning

Former Victoria Girl Married Up-Island

CAMPBELL RIVER—Lynne Carol Grove became the bride of Allan John Glendinning at a pretty autumn wedding recently in Campbell River United Church.

The bride, who was born and raised in Victoria, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grove of Campbell River, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Alexander Allnutt of Victoria, and the late Mr. Allnutt. The groom is the son of Mrs. Harry Johanson of Sandspit, Queen Charlotte Islands.

Rev. Frank Baldock performed the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. David Campbell played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Wayne Ennis who sang, "Climb Every Mountain," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gown in floor-length peau d'elephant. The A-line skirt was topped by an overblouse with elbow-length sleeves and trim of Italian lace medallions. The satin ring which held her veil in place and the edges of the waist-length veil were also edged in the lace medallions. She carried a bouquet of dark red roses.

Maid of honor Miss Lorraine Compton, bridesmatron Mrs. Michael Kenelly, and bridesmaid Miss Denise Butters wore velvet gowns similarly styled to that of the bride. Miss Compton was in orange and the other two attendants in emerald green. Matching bows were on their heads and they carried bouquets of white carnations tipped to match their gowns.

Debra LeBlanc of Victoria, cousin of the bride, and Susan Butters were flower girls. They wore short orange velvet dresses with matching headpieces and carried baskets of orange-tinted white carnations.

VON Bedside Nursing Increased by 200 Visits

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held with Mr. J. B. Barum in the chair.

Two senior nurses, Mrs. A. Lassen and Miss B. Short, each gave a short report. Mrs. Lassen had spent two days at St. Joseph's Hospital observing the most modern methods of nursing care. Miss Short attended a two-day course in obstetrics arranged by the University of British Columbia. Report on cars was given by Mr. J. C. Cox, who said they were all in good order and that running costs worked out at 4.5 cents a mile.

The nursing report given by Miss E. Riddell showed there were 189 patients admitted this month. The nurses made 2,019 visits in all and there were 13 night calls. The total service is about the same as last year, but bedside nursing showed an increase of nearly 200 visits.

Miss B. Short gave a class to the students of St. Joseph's School of Nursing as an orientation prior to their observation of VON services.

Youth Admits Guilt

A 16-year-old boy stole a car, broke into a food store and shoplifted from a city department store while a fugitive from Brannan Lake industrial school and the Victoria juvenile home, central magistrate's court was told Wednesday.

John Joseph Lowe of Vancouver pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft, to car theft and to theft under $50. He was elevated from family court Wednesday morning.

Detective Harry Adams said Lowe and another juvenile broke into Kee's Food Market, 4101 Shelbourne, Oct. 26 and stole $11 in cash and $34 worth of goods. All the goods were recovered and some of the cash.

SECOND ESCAPE
Constable Peter Voth said Lowe escaped from Brannan Lake Oct. 24 and came to Victoria. On Oct. 25 he stole a sweater and pants from Spencer's, 1420 Douglas.

Lowe escaped from the detention home Nov. 2 and stole a car from in front of 1314 Manor. The car was located, undamaged, the same day.

Alan Bigelow, who appeared for Lowe, suggested a presentence report and remarked he thought Lowe would be held either in the city jail or at Wilkinson Road.

Magistrate William Ostler replied: "He seems to be a pint-sized Houdini. He seems to get out of every place."

Two men were committed for trial on charges of breaking and entering with intent to steal, and possession of house-breaking tools.

James Erdman, 2808 Prior, and John Fleming, 163 Olive, elected trial by judge and jury. A preliminary hearing Monday was told of damage done to the rear door of David Taylor Hardware, 1153 Esquimaux, Oct. 20.

Erdman and Fleming were picked up a few hours later and a tire wrench was found in the trunk of the car driven by Fleming.

Inspector Percy Eisher of the Vancouver crime detection laboratory testified that the wrench seized from the car was the same one which made the marks on the door of the hardware store.

Ann Mino, 59, of 915 Oliver, was fined $100 when she pleaded guilty to stealing $4.96 worth of goods from The Bay, Nov. 7.

Paul White of Cedar, and William Lee of 1030 Haslam, were fined $50 each for drinking

Alberta Inquiry Hears Hawrelak

Builder Denies City Pressured

EDMONTON (CP) — A witness returned to the stand at a judicial inquiry Wednesday and denied he tried to exert pressure on the city of Edmonton through its annexation proceedings.

Land developer John Campbell said he met with Geoff Hamilton, then a city commissioner, in 1963, at Hamilton's request, but did not mention annexation to him or any other city official.

Hamilton testified a week ago that Campbell told him the city could "forget about" annexing neighboring land unless it settled a claim for compensation by Ideal Homes Ltd. Campbell had been associated with Ideal Homes with A. J.

Hooke, who then was minister of municipal affairs and now is welfare minister.

The inquiry is investigating allegations made in the last session of the legislature, by Garth Turcott, then New Democratic Party member for Pincher Creek-Crowsnest, that Hooke and E. W. Hinman, former provincial treasurer, used or attempted to use their offices for personal gain.

Campbell said he "certainly didn't" mention annexation to Hamilton.

"As far as me making any remarks to Mr. Hamilton regarding annexation, it was not in my sphere and I couldn't have cared less."

"I know so little about it and had so little to do with it that I can't see why I would make any remark about annexation."

Campbell testified Hooke gave up his shares in Ideal Homes in 1953 with the understanding "that if we ever got the company's affairs straightened out, he'd come back in."

He said Hooke continued as a director of the company until 1955 and after that "more or less directed" the company's efforts to reach a settlement in a protracted series of land dealings with the city.

William Hawrelak, Edmonton mayor from 1951 to 1959 and 1963-1965, testified the city's efforts to settle the claim by arranging a land trade would have been made "whether it was Mr. Hooke or Mr. John Doe."

He said it was city policy, "because of the vast areas of land we had available," to "help citizens be relocated," if zoning prevented their using a particular piece of land as they wished.

Hawrelak said, "It seems to me that Ideal Homes have still the same moral claim that I felt in 1964" because the city's industrial director had made "certain commitments."

He said he did not recall whether Hooke did or did not press for settlement of the claim.

Rear-Admiral Named Foundation Director

Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, retired commander of the navy's Pacific Fleet, Wednesday was appointed director of the University of Victoria Foundation.

The foundation was established by provincial statute in 1954 to receive and administer funds and properties donated to what was then Victoria College for scholarships and similar purposes.

Admiral Stirling's appointment was announced by Tom Denny, chairman of the foundation.

It now has investments worth $140,500 and plans are for a substantial increase in funds.

"I am excited about the possibilities for the future of the University of Victoria," said Admiral Stirling. "It obviously should become one of the great universities of Western Canada."

"To achieve this, it is equally obvious that the interest and help of private citizens as well as of corporations is a necessity."

"100% Colombian coffee should always be vacuum packed to keep it 100% fresh," says coffee grower Juan Valdez.*

Juan wants his coffee to come to you as fresh as the day it was ground from the beans. Because only then can you appreciate the full flavour of his 100% Colombian Coffee.

Juan and coffee growers like him spend their lives growing coffee beans that deliver a richer, fuller taste. Five thousand feet up in the Colombian Andes, the volcanic soil has had 300,000 million years to become rich in minerals. And the tall Guamas trees there spread a tent of shade so the beans can ripen slowly.

And since the harvest goes on all the year long, only the fully ripened beans are chosen, every one of them picked by hand.

These are the reasons why 100% Colombian Coffee tastes so good. And why Boban vacuum packs it to keep it that way.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Salary increases being won by British Columbia teachers in negotiations will likely cost the province more than $6,000,000.

The estimate was made as negotiations entered the arbitration stage in about a third of the province's 63 school districts.

Ron Gray, information director for the B.C. School Trustees' Association, said the average of increases so far negotiated is slightly more than 6 per cent.

With the total teachers' wage bill in B.C. now standing at about $100,000,000, the year's increase would be something over $6,000,000, he said.

DEADLINE SET
Des Grady, director of economic welfare for the B.C. Teachers' Federation, estimated the average increase would be nearer $7,000,000.

Last year B.C. teachers got increases averaging 7.8 per cent bringing the average teacher's salary in the province to $7,300. Midnight Tuesday was the deadline for districts to settle through conciliation. Mr. Grady said that at noon Wednesday 51 districts had reported firm settlements or agreements. Another 23 were resorting to arbitration—where the decision is binding on both sides—while nine were still unaccounted for.

Victoria lighthouse philosopher W. A. Scott is no richer despite discovery in his attic of long-forgotten wallet he brought from Shanghai when he settled here in 1945. Wallet contained about 65,000 Chinese yuan, worth originally about $4,000 but now worth exactly nothing.—(William E. John)

A MESSAGE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

... Regarding Butchers' Strike Threat

As customers of our food stores you should know that strike action threatened by the Meat Cutters' Union would close our entire stores, not merely the Meat Departments. You would be denied service and would suffer shopping inconvenience. Our other employees would suffer too as they would be forced out of work by the Meat Cutters' action. What are the facts of this dispute?

The Employers accepted the Conciliation Board Report granting all employees a forty cents (40c) per hour wage increase. Typical rates of pay would be as follow:

RETROACTIVE PAY FOR EACH
FULL-TIME EMPLOYEE TO DATE

Continued wage increases and other employee benefits increase operating costs. We could agree to all of the Union's demands and pass the added costs on to the housewife but we are not prepared to do this. We wish to be fair to our employees, but at the same time must try to hold down costs to consumers.

Second Grant Helps Bibliography of B.C.

Prof. Reginald Roy of the University of Victoria's history department Wednesday was awarded his second Canada Council grant to help compiling a bibliography of B.C.

The grant of $6,000 was for the second volume of the work. An earlier grant of $7,500 was made toward costs of the first volume.

Vancouver Doctor

Asbestos Threat Relatively Small

VANCOUVER (CP) — An asbestos powder used by schoolchildren and described by Victoria health officials as potentially dangerous, was dismissed Wednesday as "relatively innocuous" by Vancouver's senior medical health officer.

"We have tested a sample of the powder used in Vancouver schools and find there is no justification for recalling it," said Dr. Gerald Bonham, former Nanaimo health director.

"The Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health warned Tuesday that asbestos powder used for modelling in kindergartens and elementary schools is potentially dangerous."

LETTERS PLANNED

Senior Medical Officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said letters will be sent to principals of all such schools in the district pointing out that even short exposures to the powder can produce irritation and inflammation of the lungs.

Whitbread said that, even when the powder is moistened for modelling, the fumes could be harmful to children.

"Only a very small percentage of people who use the powder might be affected by it but we have to take care of that percentage," he said.

"It is the fibres in the asbestos which cause the irritation."

Bonham said his department was warned about the possible dangers of asbestos powder a couple of weeks ago.

"We understood that this powder has been used for modelling in schools for years," he stated.

"So we sent a sample of the powder used in Vancouver schools to the city analyst and we now find it is a relatively innocuous fibre."

Plumbers Happy With New Pact

By GEORGE ENGLISH

Journeyman plumbers are well pleased with the new agreement signed Tuesday by the Victoria Mechanical Industrial Relations Association and Local 324 of the United Association of Plumbers and Pipefitters — unless they are business owners.

Plumbers and pipefitters attending a meeting of the union local Tuesday night voted 65-17 in favor of the proposal. About 100 were eligible to vote.

Local business agent Thomas Wheatley said he felt the reception of the agreement, which was one year in the discussion stages, was good.

IN ACTION

"It is new, however, and we must study it in action before we will know how well it is working."

The owners of two small plumbing businesses, who declined to be identified, said they felt it was a good raise for the journeymen, but would hit the owners hard.

"It is going to make it tougher to estimate a job," one of them said, "and it is tough enough now."

HIGHER CHARGES

"Unfortunately, it means we have to raise our charges, and that is going to hurt, especially if it is for some small job for an old-age pensioner, or some other person on fixed income," the other one said.

Four other plumbers said they were pleased with the increase but declined to make further comment. Two others who had not heard of the increase, said they were happy to learn of it.

UNIQUE PACT

Mr. Wheatley termed the agreement, unique in Canada, to the best of his knowledge — an agreement based on cost of living indices and productivity — and said it won the unanimous approval of the negotiating committee of eight, four from the union and four from the association.

FURTHER BOOSTS

"Plumbers and pipefitters were dropping down the ladder," Mr. Wheatley said. "We hope this new agreement will restore our members to a better level and produce more stability within the trade."

The new agreement calls for

transition payment to mechanical contracting tradesmen to bring them in line with other contracting trades.

JOINT SPONSORS

The trade operates its own apprenticeship training program, sponsored jointly by the business owners and employees, a program that trains about 45 to 50 young men for the trade and helps established journeymen improve their trade skills.

The program, administered by Mr. Wheatley, has a management representative, Albert Evans, as president, and a pipefitter, Alex Simpson, as secretary. Members of both labor and management form the board.

a raise of 17 cents an hour, when it becomes effective Nov. 24. Further increases will be based on productivity and cost of living, with the target of $5.20 an hour for the journeyman by April 1, 1970.

The new agreement supersedes a former agreement which would have terminated March 31, 1969.

WITH TRADES

Discussions aimed at revising the five-year agreement began following a report by consulting economist John de Wolf in December, 1966, suggesting a

Two Safes Robbed At Union Centre

Thieves broke open two safes in the Union Centre, 2750 Quadra, overnight Tuesday and pried their way into 21 offices in the building, causing an estimated $1,000 damage.

City detectives said about $400 was stolen from the safe in the offices of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

The safe in the office of the Victoria Labor Council was attacked by the thieves, who knocked the dial off and pried the door off. About $25 was stolen.

The thieves apparently used a crowbar to force open office doors. They ripped open locked drawers and filing cabinets, leaving the offices a mess.

City detectives said it was difficult to know the total stolen, but they thought it would not exceed $500. The thieves scaled a wall on the north side of the building to a steel ladder which led them to a roof.

Cabinet Order Boosts Price of LCB Rum

The price of LCB brand rum on sale in B.C. liquor stores has been raised by as much as 40 cents a bottle, the cabinet announced Wednesday.

The order boosts an $8.25 bottle to $8.65 and other LCB brands of rum from $6.35 to $6.65 and $4.45 to $4.85. Half-bottle prices increase from $4.15 to $4.35, $3.20 to $3.35, and $2.25 to $2.35.

Deputy Appointed

New Status Awarded B.C. Control Board

The provincial Pollution Control Board has been raised in status, Resources Minister Ray Williston said Wednesday.

He was commenting on a cabinet order which appointed deputy health minister Dr. J. A. Taylor to the board. The order also rescinded the appointment of Dr. Kenneth Benson, assistant deputy health minister, whose place Dr. Taylor is taking.

Mr. Williston explained that senior civil servants in other departments serve on the board.

Medical Aid

BONN (Reuters)—West German charity organizations provided North Vietnam with enough medical equipment for a 250-bed hospital, the Roman Catholic relief organization Caritas says.

Such an accident toll — 218 workmen killed in 1966—vitality affects the economy of the province, he said.

"One might call accidents our major anti-industry," said Mr. Williston.

Tenant-Councillor Scheme Aired

The provincial government is considering an amendment to the Municipal Act which would permit non-property owners to run for municipal councils, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Wednesday.

The minister said he would be discussing a wide variety of chiefly technical amendments now under consideration by the government with the executive committee of the Union of B.C. Municipalities at Harrison Hot Springs today and Friday.

A proposal for an amendment to allow tenants to hold office in local governments was made during the last session of the legislature by the House municipal affairs committee, Mr. Campbell said. It was subsequently endorsed by the UBCM.

However, the minister said, a further extension of this principle, which would give tenant-electors the right to vote on money bylaws, had been rejected by the UBCM and was not under consideration by the government.

Debentures Approved For School Building

The B.C. cabinet Wednesday approved the issue and sale of another $1,000,000 in debentures to finance school construction throughout the province. The 6½ per cent debentures carry a full government guarantee and are repayable in 20 years.

City Manager Defended

Allegations that the city manager was not fulfilling his duties were indignantly denied Wednesday by a number of city aldermen.

The attack was made Tuesday by Ald. Robert Baird following a closed meeting of city council in the mayor's office Monday, during which salaries of department heads were discussed.

Ald. Baird said he was unhappy with the way things were going at City Hall. He felt the manager was not doing his job and was always calling in outside researchers to make decisions which were rightfully his.

Furthermore, said Ald. Baird, he felt meetings to discuss the salaries of department heads should be open and not held in camera.

MANAGER PRAISED

Mayor Stephen came immediately to the manager's defence and other members of council added their support Wednesday.

"As far as I am concerned," said senior Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, "we have one of the smartest and best informed city managers in the country."

"And that is not just my opinion. He has just been elected chairman of the Institute of Public Administration in Canada and was their main speaker at their Montreal convention this year. I can only say that the attitude of Ald. Baird in this matter is ridiculous."

UNCALLED FOR

Criticism of the city manager was completely uncalled-for, said Ald. Cecil Parrott.

"What surprises me is that after sitting on council for four years, Ald. Baird suddenly come out with a statement like this. If he feels this way, he must have held these views for some time. How come he never made the charge before? Mr. Young, in my opinion, is doing an excellent job."

'HARD TO REPLACE'

Ald. Percy Frampton said he did not always see eye to eye with the manager, but that did not in any way reflect on his competence.

"He is a man whom I believe we would find hard to replace," said Ald. Frampton.

Launching such an attack on the eye of any election was "pretty poor," said Ald. Hugh Ramsey, who concurred with other aldermen in their opinion of the city manager.

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Remember all the crowing in Canada when this country's Peter Jennings became head face on the big ABC evening newscast? And remember the denials when it was reported weeks ago, here included, that Jennings was out?

Tuesday, ABC said Jennings would "get his wish and be relieved" as anchor man, with ABC London correspondent Bob Young taking over Jan. 1. Jennings, whose father is a CBC vice-president, said he hasn't been chopped . . . "this is my decision. The company has granted my request. I only hope they will use me in the field as they did in the studio."

Since ABC's news ratings are awful, that has to be the quote of the week.

BUREAU OF USE-LESS INFORMATION: Wednesday's answer—in the musical movie Meet Me in St. Louis. The Boy Next Door lived at 5135 Kensington Avenue and The Girl Next Door lived at 5133. Judy Garland sang her heart out and finally got the boy, played by Tom Drake. Wow!

Today's question—Everyone in B.C. 25 years ago listened to Mr. Good Evening read the news on CKWX. What was his name? And name the CKWX afternoon philosopher who said daily, "Yesterday is gone, forget it; tomorrow never comes; today is the day we live." Can you wait until the answer Friday?

I'm In a Spin—Then Deathly Quiet

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — An X-15 rocket plane, its pilot crying "I'm in a spin," fell earthward from an altitude of more than 50 miles, crashed in the desert Wednesday.

Air force Maj. Michael J. Adams, 37, of nearby Edwards Air Force Base, was killed. He was the first to die in the program since X-15s began exploring the fringes of space in 1959.

Adams, on his 11th flight, was dropped from a B-52 and shot to about 265,000 feet on a routine research flight. Descending into thicker air, he ran into trouble. "I've lost my dampers," he radioed. Dampers are devices that reduce oscillation as the craft is controlled.

"Okay, I've got my dampers back now," he said moments later. Then: "I'm in a spin." Some talk from ground controllers, then: "I'm in a spin."

To listeners on the ground, his voice sounded strange, as though gravity forces on his body, resulting from the spin, made it an effort to talk.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said ground controllers who track the craft on radar think Adams may have regained control of the craft about 80,000 feet from the ground, then lost it again. Adams lived at the base with his wife and three children.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the plane, the No. 3 model of the three ships, which was equipped for high-altitude research, had zoomed to about 280,000 feet and apparently encountered trouble on the way down.

"There apparently was some sort of control malfunction as the pilot attempted to pull out of his descent," the spokesman said.

The X-15 has a pilot-ejection system but the pilot did not eject, it was reported. The plane came down in the desert near the California mining town of Johannesburg.

There have been two previous X-15 accidents, both involving crash landings. But the pilots survived the two previous incidents.

This was Adams 11th flight in an X-15.

Chrysler Output Back to Normal

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. returned to full production Wednesday. The United Auto Workers set sights on quick ratification of a national contract for production workers and negotiation of an agreement for 8,000 salaried workers.

With rebellious workers going back to their job at the Belvedere, Ill., assembly plant, the last of Chrysler's shutdown plants returned to operations. A local agreement on plant issues was reached early Wednesday at the Sterling stamping plant where workers returned Tuesday, restoring the flow of parts to crippled assembly plants.

Union and company negotiators went into bargaining for contract terms covering 8,000 office and clerical workers in a contract apart from the agreement won for Chrysler's 55,000 production workers last week.

Garden Notes

Keep the Cold Out

By M. V. CHESNUT

It often happens that when moving from one house to another, if the previous occupant was a keen gardener, quite often an excellent coldframe is found tucked away in a sunny corner of the new garden.

A new owner soon learns to make good use of the frame for starting seeds in the spring, but this useful garden accessory will usually stand idle through the winter months, either because the owner doesn't know what to do with it or because he hasn't learned how to manage a coldframe in winter.

For cold weather work, such a frame should be of good solid construction, sound and in good repair.

A flimsy, ramshackle affair with broken panes of glass, cracked sides, filthy with dirt and with much of the paint peeling off, is of no use at all in midwinter.

I can't say I care much for those fancy, patented, ready-made frames with glass sides, for glass walls don't retain enough warmth. Plastic "lights" work well, although I still have a preference for glass, but for good results, the sides and back should be of some solid material.

Brick, concrete and heavy wood are all good, and I have even seen a cozy and efficient frame built of stacked squares of sod.

A coldframe is cold only in the sense that it is not heated artificially, and all its cosiness and warmth must be secured from the rays of the sun.

For this reason, the frame must be sited in a sunny place, preferably with a bit of shelter of some kind from the prevailing wind, and the glass covers or "lights" must be kept scrupulously clean in order to admit the maximum amount of sunlight.

During the sunlit hours, the air and soil within the frame are warmed, and every effort should be made to retain this heat through the night, preventing its loss to the outside air.

Lights must be tight and well-fitting and free from cracked and broken panes. The walls are best insulated by banking up around the outside with sawdust, straw, leaves or soil.

Warmth can be prevented from cooling away downward through the soil by putting down a two-inch layer of sand or fine gravel plus a three-inch layer of chopped straw before adding the soil or ashes which will constitute the floor of the frame.

The glass lights or covering serve a useful purpose only during the hours of daylight, and at night the greatest loss of warmth will be through that same glass.

For this reason, it is always a good idea to cover the glass at sundown in frosty weather with a bit of old carpet, a blanket, a worn-out comforter or some such insulating material.

A neighbor of mine stuffs old fertilizer sacks with excelsior or wood shavings and uses these for covering his glass at night; another uses battens of glass wool encased in plastic.

Any such covering must come off the next morning or the plants within will become "drawn" for lack of light.

With a floor of coarse ashes or crushed clinders, such a frame can be used for overwintering pots of cuttings taken from the hardier bedding plants such as pansies, violas, marguerites and the like, as well as autumn sown seedlings of snapdragons, onions and lettuce.

If part of the frame can be darkened, it will be most useful for storing pots of spring-flowering bulbs during their rooting period.

Filled with a good sandy loam soil, the frame may be planted up directly in no pots or boxes — with vegetable seedlings such as Brussels sprouts and cauliflower.

It could be devoted to producing a winter crop of sweet violets or for wintering chrysanthemum stools. Some varieties of lettuce can be sown directly in the frame — the varieties Arctic King, Winter Density and Cornell 456 are good short-day kinds — together with carrots, radish and the small white table turnips.

Seduction New Parlor Game

By PAUL COATES

Way back when my mother dressed me in knickers and an aviator hat, I was expert at writing credits on the sides of walls. While other kids read McGuffey, I hung around the candy store looking at Captain Billy's Whiz Bang and Ballyho.

For light reading, I had hidden a mail order catalogue under my pillow. When the family was asleep, I'd turn to the correct ads.

If finished my higher education by looking at the pictures in Dr. Logan Glendening's book, 'The Human Body.' So even in those days, I was a king of young rascals who found out early that little girls were not merely for teasing.

But unfortunately we were not meant for each other. My infatuation was for Billie Dove, and Clara Bow came between us. I never could resist girls with beauty marks and short flapper dresses.

Perhaps you're wondering why I'm confiding all this to you. It's just to emphasize that I've never been a prude. I've read the collected works of Irving Wallace without blushing. Blushing, perhaps, but not blushing.

And I've been through all the parlor games from past office and spin the bottle to scabbled played only with dirty words.

But now they've gone too far. They have just put out a new parlor game called Seduction, which the manufacturers say is "a variation of the oldest game in the world."

Actually, I shouldn't even have a game called Seduction in the house at all. There are three impracticable boys in our household — Kevin, Timmy and me.

But curiosity got the best of this cat. And while nobody was around, I glanced at the pamphlet of rules.

"Seduction is," it said, "a game of strategy for four people—two of each sex—called lovers. Each lover is pursuing and attempting to seduce one member of the opposite sex while simultaneously avoiding being seduced by the other."

"The game is won by the lover who first successfully seduces the lover that he or she is pursuing. This is accomplished by achieving a rendezvous with the lover you are pursuing. Good luck."

I opened the carton. It contained a board, dice, and two packages of cards, pink for the ladies and blue for the gents. The board was much like a monopoly board, but instead of money, it's the players are after. And instead of "Go to Park Place," it commands "Go to Erotic Acres" or "Lover's Lane."

I couldn't think of anyone to play the game with. Playing Seduction with your own wife isn't fun, and the Boltons next door are horrible prigs. So I played Seduction all by myself.

Naturally, I won. But I really don't know what that means.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Cast Slows Up Star

HOLLYWOOD (NANAY) — David Merricks sprained his ankle and his leg is in a cast up to his knee. They are shooting him from the waist up in 'Only When I Laft'... Next for David, 'A Long Day's Dying' for Peter O'Toole... with Tom Bell who co-starred with Leslie Caron in 'The L-Shaped Room' then disappeared from international films... Hayley Mills starts 'Twisted Nerve', January. It's a road story about disturbed people. After that, 'Meeting in Pisa', both for fiance Roy Boulting.

Paramount seems to be in no hurry to spring Mia Farrow from Rosemary's Baby in Hollywood to join the cast of Frank Sinatra's picture, 'The Detective', in New York. If director Roman Polanski takes as long with Rosemary's Baby as he did with 'The Vampire Killers', 'The Detective' will have to mark time until Mia is free. Frankie, they tell me, is behaving beautifully in New York. No fights. As of going to press — and he reports on time to the set. In the past when a picture went over schedule, Sinatra, they said, would merely tear up some pages and say, "Well, now we're on time." This time Abby Mann, who scripted 'The Detective', is on the set and Sinatra respects him.

The Cary Grant-Dyan Cannon settlement offer is reportedly in the neighborhood of $50,000 a year. In spite of Cary's desire to reconcile and in spite of Dyan's play flopping on Broadway, I hear she is determined to go through with the divorce. Cary has been visiting their baby daughter in New York. He took Jennifer for a ride in the country but not Dyan.

It was hard to keep a straight face when a friend of Eddie Fisher's told me he had married Connie Stevens in Puerto Rico last March. The same chum confided six weeks ago that Eddie couldn't marry Connie until he had obtained a California decree from Elizabeth Taylor. Oh, well... Don't jump to conclusions when Tony Perkins escorts Priscilla Beaulieu around Manhattan. She arrives soon to promote her recent pictures. Tony is an old friend and has the approval of Ira's Italian count, the one with the lovely money which Ira doesn't need — she is loaded herself on her mother's side.

Bob Hope will dedicate the new 18-hole golf course at Paradise Island in the Bahamas — into which Huntington Hartford is credited or debited with sinking $20,000,000. The new owners have spent a similar amount.

When Elizabeth Taylor's two youngest children ran up a bill for $1,000 at the Hotel Cafe Boutique in Sardinia while mama and papa worked in Goforth, she made them work off the debt by running errands and such for the owners.

Hildegard Neil explained to me why she does not want to live in Hollywood and have a swimming pool. "I'm not a herring and I don't have to swim every day. In Hollywood all they think of is me, me, me. Hollywood is a dictatorship without a dictator."

Walter Shenson bought 'A Talent For Loving' from the Brian Epstein estate. This is a western and originally meant for the Beatles. Everyone comes to a western sooner or later — Sean Connery, Roman Polanski, who is planning a horse opera, and Michael Winner, who directed 'The Jokers', told me he has been offered an irresistible western which he will make in America. That's good. Usually they go to Spain.

Naturally Johnson, who wrote the Broadway musical 'Henry, Sweet Henry', was saying, "Marilyn Monroe was my favorite of the Hollywood people. I worked with her on two pictures and she could be a dreadful headache. But she was just a lost little girl and I became completely devoted to her."

I heard somewhere that Elizabeth Taylor's nude body in 'Reflections in a Golden Eye' belonged to another woman. But the sexy bare leg in the ads for 'The Graduate' is really Ann Bancroft's, the star of the film. Ann's underpinnings are star plus.

Lovers Grow Apart

SYDNEY HARRIS

What happens to us when we give up our pretensions? Most of all we develop the "courage of imperfection."

Those who lack the courage of imperfection are forever seeking to prop up their lives with false appearances — facades they maintain to cover up their all-too-human errors.

Love, despite our poets, is never perfect, but those who lack the courage of imperfection must always make their love "appear" as if it were.

Such folk often keep up a public appearance of perfection which really covers up their private agonies.

If such "perfect love" does not always end in divorce, it rarely ends in growth — it lacks depth and maturity.

perfection he is either blind or dumb — blind to reality, and dumb enough to think he really sees.

Tensions, differences of opinion and philosophy, arguments over truth — all of these can be opportunities, not catastrophes that lead us to deceive ourselves.

They can be opportunities for the creative growth of love — imperfections that lead to building, not destruction.

So, too, with our family life. Parents who rear their children under difficult and trying circumstances often transmit strength to their offspring — the courage that comes from learning to live creatively with our imperfections.

By teaching their children how to meet their less-than-perfect opportunities as challenges to personal growth, they can often mold strong and self-reliant personalities.

Compare some of these with other children — those whose parents insisted on perfection all the time, and who showered every possible advantage on them for fear that they would feel "deprived."

The child of "perfections" often ends up with much less — less spiritual vigor, less soulful stamina, less emotional maturity.

A reading of history will remind us that the "perfectionists" did not usually succeed. Andrea del Sarto was known as the "faultless painter" of the Renaissance. But he was second-rate, compared with Michelangelo who repeatedly realized how imperfect his own art was.

Strength comes when we develop the courage to accept our inevitable shortcomings and limitations and work within our own imperfections. Too many of us expend too much of our energy worrying about our appearances — what we seem like to others.

If we can abide our own inferiorities — and stop covering them over with false superlatives — we will not fear to appear as we are — imperfect. If we can learn to do this, we shall spend much less time pretending to be what we can never be — perfect.

Non-Cow Milk Coming

TORONTO (CP)—Imitation milk may soon be marketed in Canada if whole milk prices are not kept down, Roland W. Bartlett, professor of agriculture economics at the University of Illinois, said Wednesday.

Prof. Bartlett said imitation milk has been selling for about five cents less a quart than the lowest-price whole milk. He told the annual convention of the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association that although the product only has a minor share of the market in the states where it is sold, it is growing fast.

Imitation milk is high and its flavor—a primary consumer consideration—is improving," he said.

The product is usually made from non-fat dry milk, water, vegetable oil, an emulsifying agent and a stabilizer. Some producers say it will keep for five weeks under refrigeration. "The nutritional quality of im-

TORONTO (CP)—Consumers who abuse new plastic milk jugs could force milk prices up, says the Ontario branch of the Consumers' Association of Canada.

A newsletter said the three-quart jugs are used to store pesticides, gasoline and cleaning solvents before being returned, and dairies are forced to use expensive equipment to destroy the resulting odors.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

Now the word is out on Our Mother's House

Once in a long while, the people who really know about films eagerly await the arrival of a particular motion picture.

This special kind of excitement happened with "A Taste of Honey," "The Servant," "Darling" and "Blow Up." Now, it's focused on "Our Mother's House."

The reviews mirrored this interest. Judith Crist on the Today Show praised "Our Mother's House" as "A movie you won't want to miss." Time Magazine termed it "Splendid! A modern gothic tale of innocence and evil." Saturday Review said "A triumph of the director's art!"

In "Our Mother's House," Jack Clayton takes the art of the film further along the path he blazed with "Room at the Top."

If you only see the "must-see" films, you must see "Our Mother's House."

Plant Explosions Costly

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Seven men were injured Wednesday when a series of explosions ripped through the casting department of Stanton Pipes Ltd. plant.

Three men were taken to hospital, and one was reported in critical condition.

The seven men suffered burns from splashing molten metal. Company president Norman Preece said a 10-ton cupola of molten metal fell after one explosion but remained upright. "It is most fortunate that it did not tumble over and spill. Otherwise it could have been far more serious."

Mr. Preece said the cause of the blasts has not been determined.

UDINE, Italy (AP) — Three persons were killed, almost 100 injured and several buildings severely damaged when a storehouse of explosives blew up on the outskirts of this north Italian town Wednesday. Police said the dead were two women and one man who lived in an apartment just on the side of the explosion spot.

PRAGUE (AP) — Six persons were killed and 22 injured in an explosion at an ammunition factory Tuesday, the Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka reported.

Three in Hospital As Trains Crash

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) — Three persons were detained in hospital Wednesday following a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight train near this Eastern Townships community 60 miles east of Montreal.

A spokesman for St. Croix Hospital here said about 40 persons were brought in, but only a few required treatment. In most cases they arrived by private car and left without registering their names.

The spokesman said those detained, all passengers, were not seriously hurt.

An earlier CNR report said two employees, a steward and a fireman, were badly injured.

There were about 120 passengers on the passenger train, a Rapido express bound for Montreal from Quebec City when it collided with the long freight train on a single track crossing farmland five miles east of here.

The diesel engines of the two trains were derailed and fire broke out in one of them. Hydro-poles were pulled down in the derailment. CNR officials could not say how long it would take to clear the rail.

The crash occurred in bad visibility as Quebec's first blizzard of the winter swept over the province.

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Robert Stanfield, now in full command of the Tory Party in the Commons, began gearing his troops Wednesday to oust the government.

An hour after he took his seat in the Commons, he said he would crack down on absenteeism in his party in crucial votes.

Two of these votes are expected in the next month. One will be the supply motion debate, when the opposition can move non-confidence based on any issue it chooses.

The other will be the vote on Finance Minister Sharp's expected mini-budget, imposing new taxes on Canadians later this month.

faces a period of danger unequalled since it took office in April, 1963.

The three-member Scored band is understood to be considering voting against the government now that a credible alternative, the Stanfield Tories, is in the wings.

This sense of danger dominated the Commons as Stanfield, the victor of the

Iwo to Go But Not Okinawa

WASHINGTON (LAT)—The United States agreed Wednesday to hand back battle-famed Iwo Jima and the Bonin Islands to Japan, probably sometime next year. But it retained dominion over strategically important Okinawa, and declined to set a date on which it will be returned to the Japanese. Decisions were announced jointly by President Johnson and a visiting Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Billion-Dollar Bail-Out

BIG BUNDLE FOR BRITAIN

LONDON (CP) — A group of countries, including Canada, is reported to have agreed to provide Britain with a medium-term loan of about $1,000,000,000 to help repay its debt to the International Monetary Fund during the next three years.

The Associated Press quotes informants as saying several friendly countries have responded to a British request with offers of credit. The informants would not name the countries approached by Britain but the AP says Canada, the United States, West Germany and Switzerland are known to be among them.

When all the countries approached have answered, British ministers will decide whether to accept or reject the offers, the AP says.

BANK OF CANADA 'IN'

In Ottawa, a finance department spokesman said arrangements have been made among central banks in a number of countries to assist in the medium-term loan plan.

"The Bank of Canada will be participating," he said.

A treasury official in London said such a loan would help eliminate widespread speculation that Britain soon would be forced to devalue the pound—a measure which the Labor government strongly opposes.

MUST REPAY FUND

The reports suggest the loan would be for a period of from three to five years. During the next three years Britain must repay the monetary fund about $1,500,000,000 borrowed during the height of the 1964-65 sterling crisis.

The government already has acknowledged that its official reserves — currently about $3,000,000,000 — are unlikely to be increased this year. A surplus in the country's balance of payments, which the government anticipated earlier this year, has not materialized, mainly because of increasing imports and lagging exports and a recent dock strike that has impeded shipments.

NO SURPLUS IN '68?

There now is concern in official quarters that 1968 also may not produce a much-needed trade surplus that could fatten the loan reserves. There also is some indication that a recent increase in the bank rate to 6 1/2 per cent from six per cent has not attracted new capital to Britain.

During the height of the 1964-65 crisis, a total of 11 countries, including Canada, rallied to Britain's side providing stand-by credits of approximately $1,000,000,000 for a period of about six months.

The new loan would be in addition to the $770,000,000 which Britain borrowed last weekend from a number of countries for a period ranging from seven to 18 months. This loan is designed to meet a repayment to the monetary fund next month.

Romper Room Mountie Plan?

From CP

OTTAWA — One of the Ottawa Valley's most picturesque farms has been sold to the RCMP under mysterious circumstances.

Sale of the 244-acre farm was confirmed by owner John Girouard Wednesday.

"They didn't tell me what they wanted it for and swore us to secrecy," said Girouard. He also refused to name the sale price but said he considered accepting $32,000 from an area man prior to the RCMP offer.

One Ottawa source said the 93-year-old farm would be used as a "romping ground" for the 80-odd ceremonial horses that make up the famed musical ride. Their present pasture is crowded by Rockcliffe airport.

Real Vote Today

Abolition Passes 'Preview' Test

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons indicated Wednesday it will approve abolition of capital punishment for a five-year trial period.

It voted 125 to 71 against a Creditist motion to adjourn the debate on capital punishment for Wednesday only.

The motion had no practical effect because by the time the vote was completed the time allotted for government business had expired. The capital punishment debate is scheduled to resume today with a vote likely on the government bill.

Some MPs said after the vote that the vote on the adjournment motion of Roland Godin (Creditist—Portneuf) was in effect a vote on the bill itself. Others disagreed.

TORIES TOO

In any event, the Liberals voted almost solidly against the adjournment motion and were joined by 16 Conservatives, including leader Robert Stanfield casting his first vote, and 15 New Democrats.

Voting for the motion were 57 Conservatives, five Creditists, three Social Credit MPs, three independents and three Liberals — Ralph Cowan, York-Humber, Jean-Paul Racine, Beauce, and Georges Lachance, Montreal LaFontaine.

Standings in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals 132, Conservatives 95, NDP 22, Creditist 8, Independent 3, vacant 1.

TWO CASES

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) abstained on the grounds his law partner now is engaged in two murder cases.

He made it clear he at least regarded the vote as, in effect, on the bill itself when he said that if he had voted he would have voted for retention of capital punishment.

There were other indications the vote was generally regarded

Shells Keep Coming

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops poured more mortar shells into the big U.S. army and air force base in the Dak To valley at midmorning today in a siege that began 24 hours ago and raged through the night. The U.S. military command pressed ahead with an airlift to replace tons of ammunition destroyed in the assault.

Six separate mortar attacks Wednesday, Wednesday night and Thursday morning knocked out a big ammunition dump at Dak To in the central highlands, destroyed part of a smaller arsenal, blew up two big transport planes and left an area of the base in flames.

The latest rain of mortar shells hit the Dak To complex at 9:45 a.m. today, but little damage resulted.

CASUALTIES CLIMB

U.S. commanders at Dak To described the previously-inflicted damage as extremely heavy. The siege destroyed 150,000 gallons of high-octane gasoline in addition to millions of rounds of ammunition.

Saigon headquarters reported that the Dak To assaults, ground fighting nearby in the hills around the base and other combat in widely scattered areas.

Mortars, Bazookas Boom In Lengthy Cyprus Battle

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Greeks and Turks fought a seven-hour battle Wednesday in the southern part of this Mediterranean island. It was described as the most serious clash this year.

There were no reports of casualties.

A United Nations peacekeeping force has been posted on Cyprus for more than three years to prevent violence between the Greek and Turkish communities. Civil war engulfed Cyprus in December, 1963.

A government statement said Turkish Cypriots in the village of Ayio Theodoris, 25 miles south of Nicosia, opened fire on a police patrol and attacked two nearby national guard positions with mortars, bazookas and machine guns.

FROM CAPITAL

The government communiqué said national guard troops "neutralized" all resistance and reopened roads, closed by Turkish Cypriots.

Reports reaching Nicosia from Ankara, the capital of Turkey, said the Turkish cabinet held an emergency meeting Wednesday with the commanders of the army, navy and air force.

(Cemal Tural, leader of the Turkish general staff, met with newsmen in Ankara after the cabinet meeting and said "an intervention on Cyprus is possible if needed. The situation isn't as grave as it was in 1964."

We can have an intervention on Cyprus if needed.")

The UN force sent a strong protest to national guard headquarters, charging that guard troops were crowding UN positions.

Talks Broken Off In Press Dispute

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 22.5 per cent wage increase in a three-year contract for editorial, advertising and other office employees of the Sun and the Province was turned down Wednesday.

The company said the offer was made to the Vancouver New Westminster Newspaper Guild Wednesday.

The guild said later that negotiations have been suspended.

The guild represents about 600 editorial, circulation, advertising, business office and maintenance department employees.

The guild and three of four craft unions at the newspapers served strike notice Monday.

The proposed contract, retroactive to July 1, includes annual wage increases of 8, 7 and 6 per cent "to be compounded, bringing the over-all increase over three years of the contract to 22.5 per cent."

The offer included longer vacations and a willingness on the part of the company "to discuss further adjustments in the lower wage classifications."

The system is somewhat similar to a magnetic field, but it cannot be stopped by ordinary magnetic detection methods.

Dunes Done In by Dangerous Dice

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (LAT) — An electronic cheating scheme using dice coated with dangerous cobalt 60 was under investigation Wednesday by the Nevada gambling control board. The plot may already have cost one casino $300,000.

The board is asking Hughes Aircraft scientists to help find a means of detecting use of the device which could break every gambling house in Nevada.

The system also constitutes a possible health hazard.

Cobalt 60 is a heavy radioactive isotope used in medical research and in the treatment of cancer. Large amounts give off harmful radiation.

Robert Mulligan, agent in charge of electronics for the Nevada Gambling Control Board, said he talked to the inventor of the device here Tuesday afternoon. He identified him only as a steeplejack from San Diego.

"It's a feasible trick," Mulligan said. "We are going to release information to all licensees (casinos) on how to prevent it. Its theoretic possibilities are great."

Frank Johnson, chairman of the gaming board, also confirmed by telephone from Carson City that the board was "looking into it seriously."

Israeli Shipping May Lose Red Sea Route

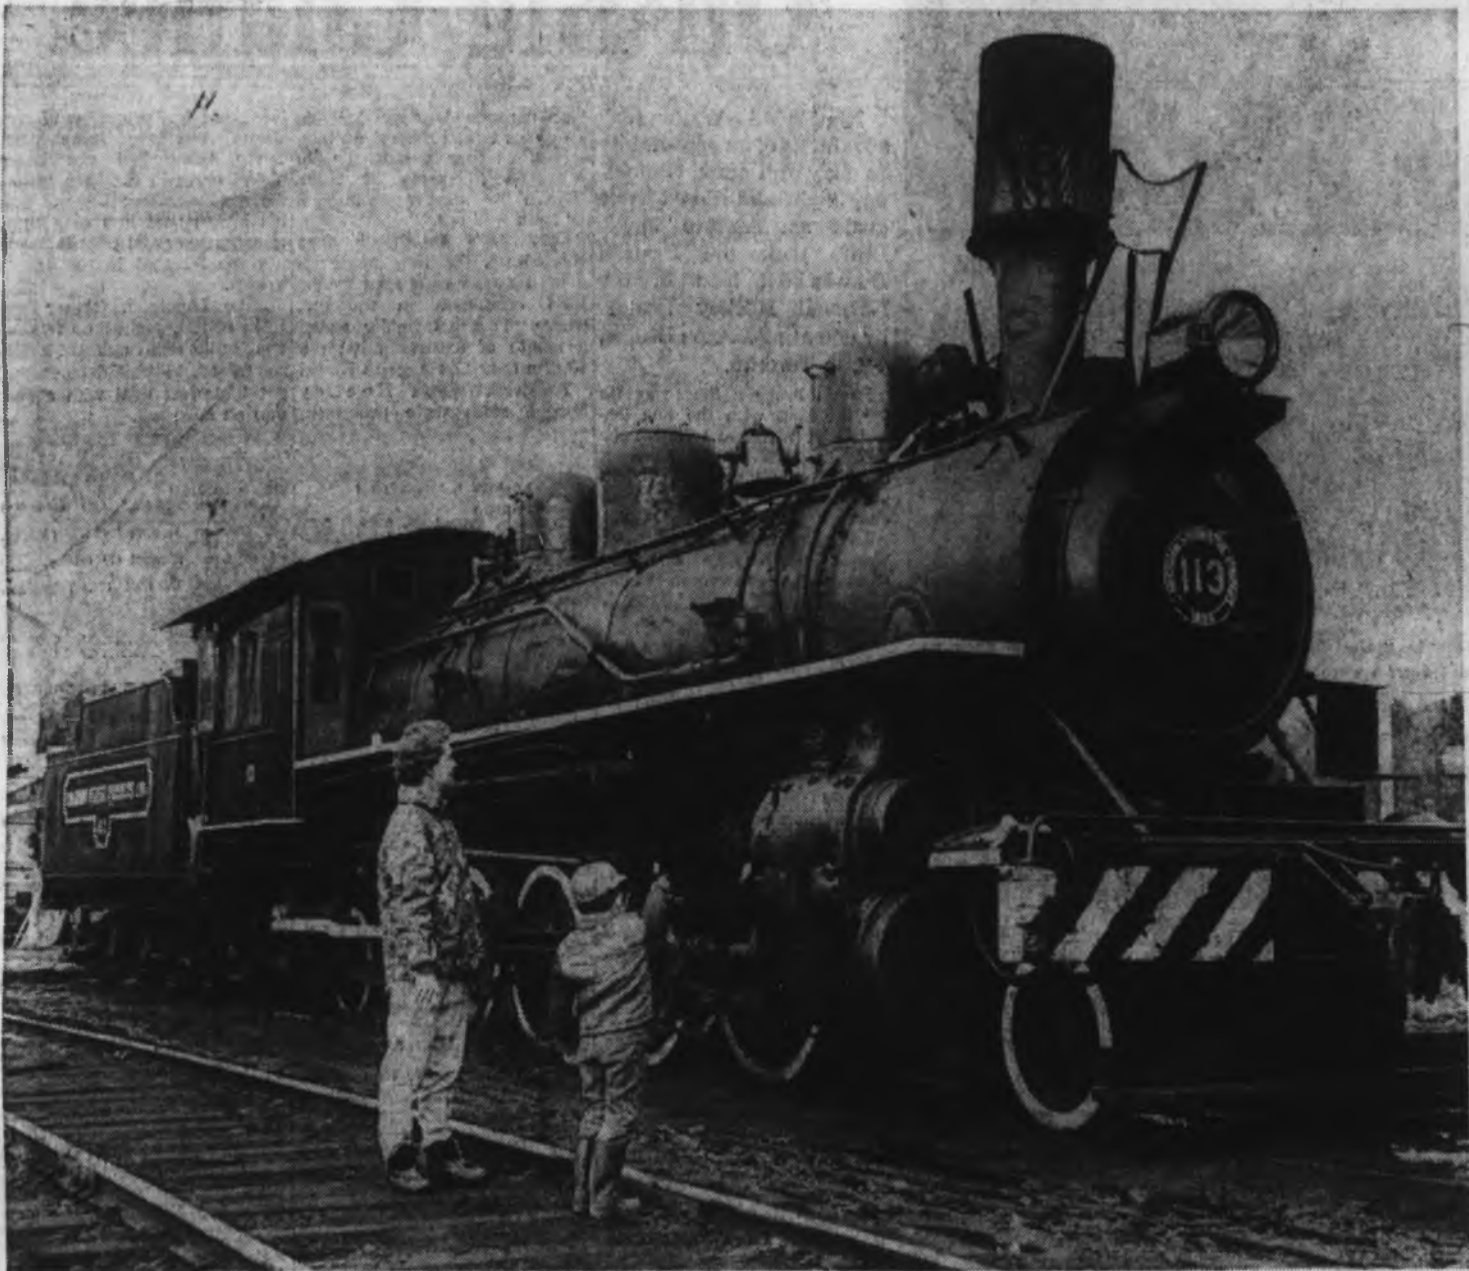

BEIRUT (LAT) — Israeli shipping will be prevented from using the Red Sea after Britain withdraws from South Arabia, a member of the high command of South Arabia's National Liberation Front has disclosed.

The statement was made by Abdel Fattah Ismail, an NLF leader and member of the team which will negotiate the turn-over of power in South Arabia with Britain in Geneva next week. The NLF announced Sunday that its forces had taken over the island of Perim at the entrance of the Red Sea which controls shipping routes there.

NO INTEREST

Britain had tried earlier to get Perim put under United Nations control because of its strategic importance. The attempt was dropped when other powers showed little interest. (See also Page 12.)

Bus System Wants Civic Cash—Soon

By MARY TAYLOR
PORT ALBERNI — Everything isn't running smoothly for this new big city. It may find itself without transit system before the new city council takes over Jan. 1.

The operators of the system bluntly warned the interim council at its first meeting. Unless there is a decision on an annual subsidy from the people Dec. 9, civic election day, the bus system may be finished.

Jim Bate and G. W. Morton of Tyee Bus Service said if the referendum does not come up this December, the company will have to give notice to quit.

Didn't Listen
Bate referred to a coming seminar on the use of consultants by civic bodies which local officials will attend later this month.

"In 1966 you had a study made and we can't see you have adopted any of the recommendations. It cost a considerable amount of money to have these consultants report."

"Much of what is in the report is just what we have been asking for," Bate told council.

Exercise Alerts Nanaimo

NANAIMO — Between 40 and 50 people were rushed to hospital Wednesday night in a mock civil defence disaster, which went off "very successfully."

Doctors were called in minutes after civil defence headquarters, headed by co-ordinator Slim Pritchard, alerted the hospital.

Cause of the mock disaster was a simulated gas explosion at the old fire hall on Nicholas Street. The "injured" were dressed in bandages and covered in "blood."

At the same time, firemen were called to a real fire at 440 Pridoux, where a room was gutted in a one-storey house owned by Julius Moroz, when a heating duct became overheated. No one was hurt, and water and smoke damage to the rest of the house was light.

Prince George has $35,000 subsidy. Three buses run 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. a single bus operates between 7 and 11:30 p.m.

Perhaps the decision should not be made by the mayor and council but should be put to the public instead, he said. The Tyee Bus Company has already continued with the 10-cent a mile subsidy longer than it could afford, because officials agreed to maintain the present service until after amalgamation, council was told.

Early End
"Now we must get rid of the transit service by Jan. 31 at the latest unless a further subsidy is forthcoming," Bate emphasized.

The decision was made at a Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce meeting, following discussion on the chamber's financial position.

Director Sam Keeble stated in his motion, "Owing to the chamber's financial position this year, and in an effort to curtail all expenditures until the end of the year, it is recommended we close the tourist office Nov. 30."

The motion was seconded by director Cliff Pascoe.

Keeble continued, "The office should be closed until we have further commitments with regard to our financial stability."

"We made a profit on the charter business and poured it into the public transit end, working long hours for low wages for 13½ years."

Books kept by the Tyee Bus Company are kept by the same auditors as used by the city, and he could see no need for the continued questioning of their records, Bate said.

Who Will Run? Names Needed

Something To Offer

CAMPBELL RIVER — Jack McLeod of McLeod Motors says he will run for municipal council. He said "I have spent two years on the town's planning committee. I have the time for council, and I believe that I have something to offer the people of Campbell River."

In Comox, Mayor R. D. Ellis will run again and Ald. James Percy has said he will run again.

Ald. Leonard Burchell remains undecided. He has served 10 years on council.

Chairman of the school board, Dr. Dennis Bullen, who represents Comox, has said he will not seek re-election.

● Ald. Geoff Browning and Ald. Ken Willis of Courtenay have stated they will definitely not seek a further term, while Ald. Harry Harris has taken out nomination papers, but has not said if he will file for alderman or contest the mayoral seat.

In Cumberland, the terms of James Weir and William Newman are up. Mr. Weir has stated his intention to seek re-election while Newman remains undecided. However, papers have been filed by a newcomer, James Eon.

● Trustee Winnifred Buchanan, Cumberland, has one more year to run, and on Courtenay the term of Barry Anderson has ended. He will not be in the race for a seat on the school board.

When the meetings end, the representatives will meet and elect one of their number to sit on the school board.

Trustee Brian Walker, formerly a board chairman, was elected to the board in this manner.

He has said he will not seek re-election.

McIvor Lake Plan Flops

Tight Money Kills Arena

By BRANT FELKER

CAMPBELL RIVER —

Recreation has been dealt two staggering blows by the provincial government, wiping out plans for a camping ground and probably killing the big arena project.

The Lands Department advised municipal council that the government refuses to lease or sell district lots around McIvor Lake.

The recreation commission wanted to develop a camping, boating, and swimming area.

'Essential'

The inspector of Municipalities said the money market is so bad, he would not approve the arena unless council considers it "an essential project."

A motion that the public vote Dec. 9 on whether the arena is essential was defeated by a narrow margin.

The government asked council to clarify its position on the arena. Council asked the brokerage firm of A. E. Ames about the debenture market.

The firm said on debentures supporting "absolute necessities," the market is demanding and getting interest rates at 8 per cent.

Last Try

This just about puts the arena right out of reach.

But Coun. Blair McLean made one last try.

He moved the arena be considered essential, and be placed before the public Dec. 9.

Council was evenly split on the issue, and the reeve cast the deciding ballot against the plan.

Council approved a motion by Herbert Osing that the matter of purchase of land for the arena at some future date, be placed on the December ballot.

Not Possible

On the McIvor Lake property problem, the government said there could be no possible disposition of control of the land to the recreation commission.

McLean suggested a d m i n i s t r a t o r Larry Evans explore any possible way of getting use of the land for recreational development.

Council decided to proceed immediately with a traffic light arrangement that is not quite what Campbell River wants, rather than wait for another design.

Work, Land

Site of the light is at a corner of Willow Street.

The light prohibits northbound traffic from turning left onto Willow Street. The road would have to be widened, requiring much work and land purchase, to make the setup ideal.

The provincial government will now proceed with the work. The Indian Affairs Department has said the master plan for Campbell River's No. 11 reserve is completed, and needs only the approval of the band council.

Campbell River will expedite matters, and ask the administrator to try to arrange a joint meeting between the band and the district to discuss roads and water line problems.

The building inspector said permits were issued for construction of five homes, two commercial buildings, and 13 alterations, for a total of $183,000 for October.

Owner of the car which crashed into Shogan's on Nanose Flats, Lawrence Bryson, 18, who was a passenger at the time, was acquitted Wednesday afternoon soon after the Crown's case was completed.

"As a matter of law, there is no evidence to warrant a conviction," assize court judge G. F. Gregory told the jury in a directed verdict.

Wednesday evening the driver of the car, 21-year-old Brian Keith Roberts, was also acquitted.

Witness Ronald F. Nichols told the court a car overtook him shortly before the head-on crash.

He said it veered widely, swerved back into its own lane, only to fishtail onto the shoulder and across the centre line. It hit the last car in a line of cars approaching.

Both cars disappeared over a bank in a flash of light and a cloud of dust.

Court was told those in the Roberts car had been drinking several hours before the accident, and that Bryson had allowed Roberts to drive his car despite Roberts not having a licence.

Rolling Log Crushes Man

CAMPBELL RIVER — The name of a local 20-year-old logger who was killed Wednesday was not released by RCMP Wednesday night because the man's parents had not been notified.

The man was crushed by a rolling log while working at Macmillan Bloedel's Memas Bay division, just north of Campbell River. His parents are believed to now be living in the U.S.

Chemainus Hospital

Firetrap Claim Hotly Rebuked

NORTH COWICHAN — The Chemainus hospital is up to standard in every respect. Reports of inspecting officials have been very good, said Reeve Donald Morton at Wednesday afternoon's council meeting.

"It is most unfortunate that somebody made the statement it was a firetrap."

Coun. John Cannon supported the reeve's remarks and said many inspections have been made in the past and inspections will also be carried out in the future.

Cannon added the Chemainus hospital board meanwhile submitted a brief to the B.C. Hospital Insurance Commission requesting the consideration be given for a new hospital at Chemainus because of the rapidly increasing population.

Instructors Paid Less

Discussing the provisional North Cowichan parks and recreation budget for 1968 of $57,975, which was tentatively approved by council, Coun. Margaret Robertson questioned the large discrepancy between allocated monies for lifeguards ($2,400) and swimming instructors ($100).

The reeve said swimming instructors are not paid but occasionally a lifeguard also teaches swimming.

"If we pay swimming instructors then we should pay basketball instructors as well."

Mrs. Robertson disagreed. "I think swimming instructors are most important to save lives."

"There are no lives lost in basketball."

Referring to the proposed recreational budget which is about $10,000 higher than it was this year, the reeve said "it is a cleverly drawn up budget with many smaller items. To cut the budget would mean to shave off about 10 per cent of each item."

Winter Skating?

Coun. Dennis Hogan, who is the chairman of the North Cowichan Recreation Commission, replied "that has been done already."

A North Cowichan council committee will be willing to meet with members of the city council to discuss the feasibility of opening the curling rink on James Street for skating during the winter.

Hogan said "It should be considered if the lease is reasonable."

"We only could use it for skating during the winter."

The reeve stressed "We should meet as quickly as possible."

"I like to get a much better idea of what we are talking about."

Council learned the Chemainus branch of the Royal Canadian Legion is expected to submit a sketch plan of its proposed apartment block for aged citizens near the Chemainus shopping area.

The reeve said "There is no reasonable objection to their proposal."

"Their ideas and intentions are good."

Coun. Reginald Clegg added "I am all in favor of it."

In a letter signed by five ratepayers in the Arbutus Point area, council was urged to improve conditions on the road leading to the point in the Maple Bay district.

Two Acquitted: Evidence Lack

NANAIMO — Two young men were acquitted Wednesday of criminal negligence in the highway death May 6 of Michael Shogan, 21.

Owner of the car which crashed into Shogan's on Nanose Flats, Lawrence Bryson, 18, who was a passenger at the time, was acquitted Wednesday afternoon soon after the Crown's case was completed.

"As a matter of law, there is no evidence to warrant a conviction," assize court judge G. F. Gregory told the jury in a directed verdict.

Wednesday evening the driver of the car, 21-year-old Brian Keith Roberts, was also acquitted.

Donation Helps Housing

By HELEN MITCHELL

CAMPBELL RIVER — The largest single donation believed made here by a service club, $1,152, has been presented to the Lions Club by the women's auxiliary to the Legion.

The money will pay for 3,600 square feet of concrete foot-paths surrounding the senior citizens' housing project, Centennial Cottages. (See Island Scene, Page 15.)

The cheque was presented by auxiliary president Mrs. Ethel Cox, and Mrs. Evelyn Hunt, treasurer.

The money was raised by bingo games.

Bill Matthews, secretary-treasurer of the Senior Citizens' Housing Society, accepted the cheque on behalf of the Lions Club.

"This is definitely the largest single donation that we have received towards the cottages," said Mike Bewza, chairman of the society.

"The Legion auxiliary has been very good to our senior citizens," commented Bewza.

"When the cottages were built, the ladies provided a commercial-sized washing machine at a cost of more than $500.

"This saved the Lions Club from having to install a coin-operated laundry," he said.

He also paid tribute to auxiliary members who call regularly on some of the residents who have no relatives in the district and who are often lonely.

Bewza said employees of Island Ready Mixed Concrete Ltd. gave their time and labor free after working hours, to assist Lions Club members to pour the sidewalks.

There are seven double and four single units in the housing project.

Other local organizations have contributed equipment, furnishings, shrubs and landscaping to finish off the low-cost accommodation.

Stanfield on job

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Robert Stanfield, now in full command of the Tory Party in the Commons, began gearing his troops Wednesday to oust the government.

An hour after he took his seat in the Commons, he said he would crack down on absenteeism in his party in crucial votes.

Two of these votes are expected in the next month. One will be the supply motion debate, when the opposition can move non-confidence based on any issue it chooses.

The other will be the vote on Finance Minister Sharp's expected mini-budget, imposing new taxes on Canadians later this month. The minority government faces a period of danger unequaled since it took office in April, 1963.

The three-member Sacred band is understood to be considering voting against the government now that a credible alternative, the Stanfield Tories, is in the wings.

This sense of danger dominated the Commons as Stanfield, the victor of the

Iwo to Go But Not Okinawa

WASHINGTON (LAT)—The United States agreed Wednesday to hand back battle-famed Iwo Jima and the Bonin Islands to Japan, probably sometime next year. But it retained dominion over strategically important Okinawa, and declined to set a date on which it will be returned to the Japanese. Decisions were announced jointly by President Johnson and a visiting Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Cyprus Flareup

TURK FORCES PUT ON ALERT

NICOSIA (UPI) — Turkish military forces were placed on full alert today as the government sealed international airports and called for an urgent meeting of Turkey's parliament to debate a seven-hour battle on Cyprus which shattered a month-long truce.

Tension rapidly built up after Wednesday's shoot-out on the Mediterranean island between Turkish and Greek Cypriot police and national guard units. The fighting was halted late in the evening after the United Nations force on the island negotiated a ceasefire.

EMERGENCY SESSION

The Turkish cabinet met in emergency session in Ankara. The chiefs of the army, navy and air force were called in to the meeting which continued early this morning.

Turkish general staff chief Gen. Fethiye Tugral warned during a break in the cabinet meeting "an intervention on Cyprus is possible if needed."

MORE TROOPS

Turkish parliamentarians were called to an urgent and secret meeting of the national assembly this afternoon to discuss the Cyprus clash and developments.

Informed sources said the government was expected to demand parliamentary approval for authority to send troops out of Turkey.

NEAR VILLAGE

The Greek Cypriot government claimed Turkish Cypriots opened fire Wednesday on a police patrol attempting to enter the mixed-population village of Ayios Theodoros, south of Nicosia.

The official Turkish Anatolian News Agency said Greek forces "supplied with cannons and armored vehicles" attacked the village "despite the defence of the Turkish civilians."

Casualties in the battle were not immediately known.

FLIGHTS OFF

One of the Turkish cabinet's first actions was to place its military forces on alert. Later, the cabinet decided to close the Yesilkoy airport at Istanbul and Ankara's Esenboga airport to international traffic.

The ban applies to all commercial flights and North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) air traffic.

Snow Snarls Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Montrealers struggled through snow drifts and traffic snarls Wednesday after winter's first storm dumped 3 1/4 inches of snow on the city and nine inches elsewhere in southern Quebec.

Winds gusting to 25 miles an hour sent pedestrians hurrying for shelter and temperatures fell lower than the range of 14 to 18 degrees registered during the storm.

OTTAWA — One of the Ottawa Valley's most picturesque farms has been sold to the RCMP under mysterious circumstances.

Sale of the 244-acre farm was confirmed by owner John Girouard Wednesday.

"They didn't tell me what they wanted it for and swore us to secrecy," said Girouard. He also refused to name the sale price but said he considered accepting $32,000 from an area man prior to the RCMP offer.

One Ottawa source said the 93-year-old farm would be used as a "romping ground" for the 80-odd ceremonial horses that make up the famed musical ride. Their present pasture is crowded by Rockcliffe airport.

Abolition Passes 'Preview' Test

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons indicated Wednesday it will approve abolition of capital punishment for a five-year trial period.

It voted 125 to 71 against a Creditist motion to adjourn the debate on capital punishment for Wednesday only.

The motion had no practical effect because by the time the vote was completed the time allotted for government business had expired. The capital punishment debate is scheduled to resume today with a vote likely on the government bill.

Some MPs said after the vote that the vote on the adjournment motion of Roland Godin (Creditist-Portneuf) was in effect a vote on the bill itself. Others disagreed.

TORIES TOO

In any event, the Liberals voted almost solidly against the adjournment motion and were joined by 15 Conservatives, including leader Robert Stanfield casting his first vote, and 15 New Democrats.

Voting for the motion were 57 Conservatives, five Creditists, three Social Credit MPs, three independents and three Liberals — Ralph Cowan, York-Humber, Jean-Paul Racine, Beauce, and Georges Lachance, Montreal Lafontaine.

Standings in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals 132, Conservatives 95, NDP 22, Creditists 8, Independent 3, vacant 1.

TWO CASES

Erik Nielsen (PC-Yukon) abstained on the grounds his law partner now is engaged in two murder cases.

He made it clear he at least regarded the vote as, in effect, on the bill itself when he said that if he had voted he would have voted for retention of capital punishment.

There were other indications the vote was generally regarded

Shells Keep Coming

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops poured more mortar shells into the big U.S. army and air force base in the Dak To valley at midmorning today in a siege that began 24 hours ago and raged through the night. The U.S. military command pressed ahead with an airlift to replace tons of ammunition destroyed in the assault.

Six separate mortar attacks Wednesday, Wednesday night and Thursday morning knocked out a big ammunition dump at Dak To in the central highlands, destroyed part of a smaller arsenal, blew up two big transport planes and left an area of the base in flames.

The latest rain of mortar shells hit the Dak To complex at 9:45 a.m. today, but little damage resulted.

HEAVY DAMAGE

U.S. commanders at Dak To described the previously-inflicted damage as extremely heavy. The siege destroyed 150,000 gallons of high-octane gasoline in addition to millions of rounds of ammunition.

Salmon headquarters reported that the Dak To assaults, ground fighting nearby in the hills around the base and other combat in widely scattered

Billion-Dollar Bail-Out Will Help U.K. Finances

LONDON (CP) — A group of countries, including Canada, is reported to have agreed to provide Britain with a medium-term loan of about $1,000,000,000 to help repay its debt to the International Monetary Fund during the next three years.

The Associated Press quotes informants as saying several friendly countries have responded to a British request with offers of credit. The informants would not name the countries approached by Britain but the AP says Canada, the United States, West Germany and Switzerland are known to be among them.

BANK OF CANADA 'IN'

When all the countries approached have answered, British ministers will decide whether to accept or reject the offers, the AP says.

In Ottawa, a finance department spokesman said arrangements have been made among central banks in a number of countries to assist in the medium-term loan plan.

"The Bank of Canada will be participating," he said.

A treasury official in London said such a loan would help eliminate widespread speculation that Britain soon would be forced to devalue the pound — a measure which the Labor government strongly opposes.

The reports suggest the loan would be for a period of from three to five years. During the next three years Britain must repay the monetary fund about

The government already has acknowledged that its official reserves — currently about $3,000,000,000 — are unlikely to be increased this year.

Talks Broken Off In Press Dispute

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 22.5-per-cent wage increase in a three-year contract for editorial, advertising and other office employees of the Sun and the Province — was turned down, Pacific Press Ltd. said Wednesday.

The company said the offer was made to the Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild Wednesday.

The guild said later that negotiations have been suspended.

The guild represents about 600 editorial, circulation, advertising, business office and maintenance department employees.

The guild and three of four craft unions at the newspapers served strike notice Monday.

The proposed contract, retroactive to July 1, includes annual wage increases of 8, 7 and 6 per cent "to be compounded, bringing the over-all increase over three years of the contract to 22.5 per cent."

The offer included longer vacations and a willingness on the part of the company "to discuss further adjustments in the lower wage classifications."

Science Asked to Help

Dunes Done In by Dangerous Dice

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (LAT) — An electronic cheating scheme using dice coated with dangerous cobalt 60 was under investigation Wednesday by the Nevada gambling control board. The plot may already have cost one casino $300,000.

The board is asking Hughes Aircraft scientists to help find a means of detecting use of the device which could break every gambling house in Nevada.

The system also constitutes a possible health hazard.

Cobalt 60 is a heavy radioactive isotope used in medical research and in the treatment of cancer. Large amounts give off harmful radiation.

Robert Mulligan, agent in charge of electronics for the Nevada Gambling Control Board, said he talked to the inventor of the device here Tuesday afternoon. He identified him only as a steepjack from San Diego.

"It's a feasible trick," Mulligan said. "We are going to release information to all licensees (casinos) on how to prevent it. Its theoretic possibilities are great."

Frank Johnson, chairman of the gaming board, also confirmed by telephone from Carson City that the board was "looking into it seriously."

The board's agents turned to Hughes Aircraft scientists for help because Howard Hughes recently bought the Desert Inn, Sands Hotel and other properties here.

The cheating scheme involves an electronic pulsating device and the rubbing of cobalt 60 on dice. When the pulsating device is turned on, the treated dice will react.

The system is somewhat similar to a magnetic field, but it cannot be stopped by ordinary magnetic detection methods.

Johnson said he had heard that the device was used at the Dunes Hotel. About a month ago officials at the hotel reported that a fantastic number of points had been made at the dice table, costing the casino $300,000.

"Someone was in town, they had it and they used it," Johnson said. But he added he is not convinced that it was actually used at the Dunes or that it works.

Mulligan, however, said the inventor of the device told him it was used at the Dunes. The inventor said he checked a gaming table with a scintillator and the instrument detected radiation.

The inventor, according to Johnson, admitted that he made one such device but said that he does not have it now.

In any event, the Liberals voted almost solidly against the adjournment motion and were joined by 16 Conservatives, including leader Robert Stanfield casting his first vote, and 15 New Democrats.

Voting for the motion were 57 Conservatives, five Creditistes, three Social Credit MPs, three independents and three Liberals — Ralph Cowan, York-Humber, Jean-Paul Racine, Beauce, and Georges Lachance, Montreal-Lafontaine.

Standings in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals 132, Conservatives 95, NDP 22, Creditiste 8, Independent 3, vacant 1.

TWO CASES

Erik Nielsen (PC-Yukon) abstained on the grounds his law partner now is engaged in two murder cases.

He made it clear he at least regarded the vote as, in effect, on the bill itself when he said that if he had voted he would have voted for retention of capital punishment.

There were other indications the vote was generally regarded

Shells Keep Coming

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops poured more mortar shells into the big U.S. army and air force base in the Dak To valley at midmorning today in a siege that began 24 hours ago and raged through the night. The U.S. military command pressed ahead with an airlift to replace tops of ammunition destroyed in the assault.

Six separate mortar attacks Wednesday, Wednesday night and Thursday morning knocked out a big ammunition dump at Dak To in the central highlands, destroyed part of a smaller arsenal, blew up two big transport planes and left an area of the base in flames.

The latest rain of mortar shells hit the Dak To complex at 9:45 a.m. today, but little damage resulted.

HEAVY DAMAGE

U.S. commanders at Dak To described the previously-inflicted damage as extremely heavy. The siege destroyed 150,000 gallons of high-octane gasoline in addition to millions of rounds of ammunition.

Salon headquarters reported that the Dak To assaults, ground fighting nearby in the hills around the base and other combat in widely scattered

Israeli Shipping May Lose Red Sea Route

BEIRUT (LAT) — Israeli shipping will be prevented from using the Red Sea after Britain withdraws from South Arabia, a member of the high command of South Arabia's National Liberation Front has disclosed.

The statement was made by Abdel Fattah Ismail, an NLF leader and member of the team which will negotiate the turnover of power in South Arabia with Britain in Geneva next week. The NLF announced Sunday that its forces had taken over the island of Perim at the entrance of the Red Sea which controls shipping routes there.

NO INTEREST

Britain had tried earlier to get Perim put under United Nations control because of its strategic importance. The attempt was dropped when other powers showed little interest. (See also Page 12.)

Israel gets all her oil and many other imports through the Red Sea to the port of Eilat on the Gulf of Aqaba. It was Egyptian closure of the Aqaba Gulf which precipitated the Arab-Israeli war last June.

'Dear Santa: I'd Like A Rocket ...'

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Highway Minister F. A. Gardi, known across the province as "Flying Phil" because of his high-speed highway antics, says he's got his sights set on becoming an astronaut. "I wish they'd let me in one — (of those rockets) — then get those cotton-picking RCMP out of the way."

Billion-Dollar Bail-Out Will Help U.K. Finances

LONDON (CP) — A group of countries, including Canada, is reported to have agreed to provide Britain with a medium-term loan of about $1,000,000,000 to help repay its debt to the International Monetary Fund during the next three years.

The Associated Press quotes informants as saying several friendly countries have responded to a British request with offers of credit. The informants would not name the countries approached by Britain but the AP says Canada, the United States, West Germany and Switzerland are known to be among them.

BANK OF CANADA 'IN'

When all the countries approached have answered, British ministers will decide whether to accept or reject the offers, the AP says.

In Ottawa, a finance department spokesman said arrangements have been made among central banks in a number of countries to assist in the medium-term loan plan.

"The Bank of Canada will be participating," he said.

A treasury official in London said such a loan would help eliminate widespread speculation that Britain soon would be forced to devalue the pound — a measure which the Labor government strongly opposes.

The reports suggest the loan would be for a period of from three to five years. During the next three years Britain must repay the monetary fund about

$1,500,000,000 borrowed during the height of the 1964-65 sterling crisis.

The government already has acknowledged that its official reserves — currently about $3,000,000,000 — are unlikely to be increased this year.

Talks Broken Off In Press Dispute

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 22.5-per-cent wage increase in a three-year contract for editorial, advertising and other office employees of the Sun and the Province was turned down.

The company said the offer was made to the Vancouver New Westminster Newspaper Guild Wednesday.

The guild said later that negotiations have been suspended.

The guild represents about 600 editorial, circulation, advertising, business office and maintenance department employees.

The guild and three of four craft unions at the newspapers served strike notice Monday.

The proposed contract, retroactive to July 1, includes annual wage increases of 8, 7 and 6 per cent "to be compounded, bringing the overall increase over three years of the contract to 22.5 per cent."

The offer included longer vacations and a willingness on the part of the company "to discuss further adjustments in the lower wage classifications."

Someone was in town, they had it and they used it," Johnson said. But he added he is not convinced that it was actually used at the Dunes or that it works.

Mulligan, however, said the inventor of the device told him it was used at the Dunes. The inventor said he checked a gaming table with a scintillator and the instrument detected radiation.

The inventor, according to Johnson, admitted that he made one such device but said that he does not have it now.

Johnson said he had heard that the device was used at the Dunes Hotel. About a month ago officials at the hotel reported that a fantastic number of points had been made at the dice table, costing the casino $300,000.

The system is somewhat similar to a magnetic field, but it cannot be stopped by ordinary magnetic detection methods.

Dunes Done In by Dangerous Dice

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (LAT) — An electronic cheating scheme using dice coated with dangerous cobalt 60 was under investigation Wednesday by the Nevada gambling control board. The plot may already have cost one casino $300,000.

The board is asking Hughes Aircraft scientists to help find a means of detecting use of the device which could break every gambling house in Nevada.

The system also constitutes a possible health hazard.

Cobalt 60 is a heavy radioactive isotope used in medical research and in the treatment of cancer. Large amounts give off harmful radiation.

Robert Mulligan, agent in charge of electronics for the Nevada Gambling Control Board, said he talked to the inventor of the device here Tuesday afternoon. He identified him only as a stevedore from San Diego.

"It's a feasible trick," Mulligan said. "We are going to release information to all licensees (casinos) on how to prevent it. Its theoretic possibilities are great."

Frank Johnson, chairman of the gaming board, also confirmed by telephone from Carson City that the board was "looking into it seriously."
